Dedication

To those who endowed this University, typified by the twin industries of Agriculture and Mining, and so provided the youth of their state with the privilege of a higher education, a grateful student body pays tribute. To their benefactors, the taxpayers of the State of Nevada, the Associated Students dedicate this volume of their yearbook, hoping to give them a comprehensive record of the past college year.

FACULTY ADMINISTRATION

Maxwell Adams (Acting President); Regents Silas E. Ross (Chairman), George S. Brown, George Wingfield

The Board of Regents

The constitution of the State of Nevada provides that the affairs of the University be under the supervision of a Board of Regents. Tenure of office for members is ten years. Required by law to convene at least four times annually, the Board on these occasions passes on graduations, faculty appointment and withdrawals, financial affairs, and student matters. Results of these meetings are submitted to the State Legislature and Governor in the form of biannual reports. Present members of the Board are George S. Brown, George Wingfield, A. C. Olmsted, Frank Williams, Silas E. Ross, Chairman. Weightiest problem confronting them this year was the discrediting of two engineering schools by the Engineering Council of Professional Development. Coming as a surprise to the University, the committee's decision was the cause of excited discussion among engineering undergraduates, who discovered later that their careers were quite safe. University officials consider the matter as an unfortunate situation rising from recent financial reverses and plan to correct the condition as soon as possible. A move on the part of students to build a much-needed Student Union Building was approved by the Board but later was killed by the students themselves because of the attendant twenty-five per cent raise in student body fees and the obscure nature of building details. Facing the Regents at present is the acute situation caused by the restriction of gymnasium capacity to eight hundred people.

President Walter E. Clark

This year President Walter E. Clark will see the completion of his twenty-first year of service as head of the University of Nevada. During this period he has seen college enrollment tripled, its plant enlarged from a few straggling buildings to a well-planned and beautiful campus. Graduating from Ohio Wesleyan and Columbia Universities, Dr. Clark continued his studies at the College of the City of New York. There he was noted for his lectures on economics and education. A signal honor was given the President during his leave of absence in the Spring when the French Consul General in San Francisco conferred on him the rank of Knight of the Legion of Honor of the Republic of France. On the date of the 1937-38 Homecoming celebration a portrait by Hans Meyer-Kassel of Dr. Clark was presented to the school. In addition, during the Spring on Gift Day, portraits of several past presidents of the University were dedicated as well as a bust of President Clark. Students at Nevada remember Dr. Clark for his work in building a progressive, respected college, and for his abilities as a speaker and leader.

President Walter E. Clark

Vice-President Maxwell Adams

New to the campus, but familiar to the Sigma Alpha Epsilon fraternity as their housemother, Jeanette Cameron Rhodes made her debut this year as registrar. Taking over her new duties in a capable manner, Mrs. Rhodes successfully passed her first year compiling records of student successes and failures, classifying students, filing transfers and keeping the seniors informed of their standing. She rapidly is acquiring Miss Louise M. Sissa's faculty for calling each student by his given name.

Soft spoken, keenly perceptive, a gracious speaker and by nature a great arbitrator, Nevada has in Maxwell Adams a decided asset. In the capacity of vice-president, his work in collaboration with President Clark has been admirable. Receiving the position in 1922, the last fifteen years have revealed advancements that are hallmarks to the man's caliber. Dr. Clark's indefinite leave of absence left to him, temporarily, the president's chair and duties attendant.

Registrar Jeanette C. Rhodes

For twenty-seven years Charles H. Gorman has been responsible for all funds of the University. Given the title of comptroller, he has handled all money paid out of and into the treasury, and is the man responsible for collection of registration fees from students. In order to increase the efficiency of his office, he devised, upon his assumption of duties in 1911, a new system of accounting. The system has been so successful that it has been adopted by several other universities and colleges.

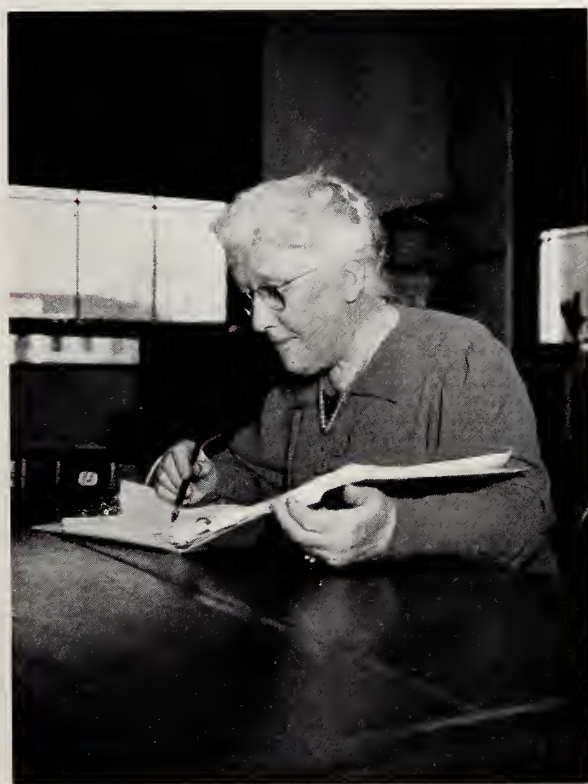

Comptroller Charles H. Gorman

Completing his sixth year as Dean of Men, Reuben C. Thompson has performed to perfection in this capacity. As chairman of the student affairs committee the Dean handles all cases of student misconduct. Also serving on the Rhodes Scholarship and Calendar committees, Thompson carries in addition a full teaching schedule. An interesting conversationalist and possessing a delightful sense of humor the Dean is a welcome guest to all social functions. Though generous and considerate to a fault he nevertheless is fully capable of clamping down on those so unwise as to disregard social precept. The Dean's office is an oracle for students seeking advice and counsel on college matters.

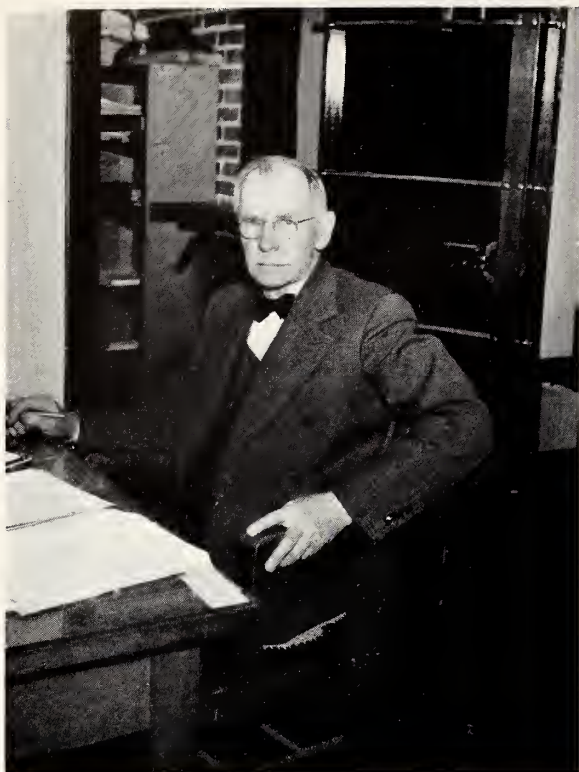

Dean Reuben C. Thompson

Dean Margaret E. Mack

Graduating from Nevada in 1910 Margaret Mack returned in 1913 as an instructor in Biology. To-day she is Dean of Women and in that capacity controls the academic and social welfare of some five hundred women. To her, in addition, is given the task of arranging the year's social calendar and passing on all events therein. She still continues to teach Nature Study and Hygiene to freshman women. Considered rather strict by newcomers to Manzanita and Artemisia halls, she nevertheless is admired from the start for her capable handling of her girls. Actually, they find, this supervision of their scholastic and social endeavors is of decided benefit to both. Popular chaperone, she is present at every University function of importance.

Dean Frederic H. Sibley

For the past eighteen years, Dean Frederick H. Sibley has been head of the school of Mechanical Engineering and Dean of the College of Engineering. He has contributed several textbooks on machine design and mechanical drawing to the field of modern scientific literature. Although somewhat hindered by the lack of equipment and teaching facilities, his college of Engineering has a formidable placement record. He has seen several of his schools progress and grow until they are ranked among the best schools of the nation. His experience in such engineering schools as the Universities of Alabama and Kansas has given him the ability to understand the problems and needs of the students of his college. His quiet way and efficient management make students and faculty respect him.

Dean Maxwell Adams

Fresh from the Vice-presidency at Chico Normal School, Dean Maxwell Adams, a graduate of Stanford, came to Nevada in 1906 as a professor of Chemistry. Appointed Dean of the College of Arts and Sciences in 1918, the additional honor of Vice-president came in 1922. Intensely interested in organic chemistry, he continues active teaching in this field. Specialty with him is research in the by-product possibilities of sagebrush oil. To him go students with cinches and explanations to get quietly offered, but best followed, advice. Largely responsible for the excellent organization of his college, newcomers are acquainted with it through the Dean's lectures in Freshman Orientation. With such a man holding two of the key positions in the University, Nevada has little cause to worry.

Dean Stewart is one of the most active deans at the University of Nevada. He is head of the department of Agronomy, professor and dean of the College of Agriculture. Since 1920, when Dr. Robert Stewart was made dean of the College of Agriculture, ninety per cent of all the men who have been graduated from his school are still in the field of agriculture. This is one of the most notable achievements of his administration. His chief interest and high reputation has been maintained as a soil specialist, and he has made successful experiments in the development of fertilizer. He has made great strides toward the attainment of his objective, which is the practice of scientific agriculture as a profession.

Dean Robert Stewart

Dean Fred W. Traner

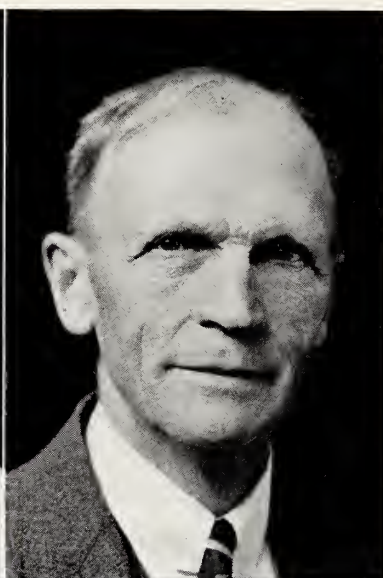

Doctor Fred W. Traner, made dean of the school of education only last year, has already proved himself worthy of his position. For the past twenty-three years Doctor Traner has been a member of the faculty of the school of education. He served in the capacity of Superintendent of Schools at Lancaster, Wisconsin, previous to coming to Nevada. Later he received his Ph.D. at the University of California. This background of training and experience accounts for his progressive attitude and open-minded attack upon the educational problems of the students and teachers. He handles the administration of the school of education, which includes the very important function of teacher placement, along with the duties required of the president of the Nevada State Educational Association.

Faculty Department Heads

Nevada's faculty combines specialists with others whose work has commanded public notice. Among the best known internationally is Dr. J. E. Church, whose snow surveys brought world-wide attention. Last summer, Dr. Church completed an extensive study of Russia as a modern state, while heading an international snow-survey meeting. To mention some faculty achievements would risk being unfair to many others of outstanding ability in their particular departments. Additions to the faculty for 1938-39 include Dr. Elton Wittwer as head of the Department of Agricultural Economics, Miss Katherine Schnell as assistant in the women's Physical Education Department, and Margaret Jensen as assistant in the Mathematics Department.

As a body, the University of Nevada faculty has completed an active year of progress and change. Headed by Dean Maxwell Adams, acting President in the absence of Dr. Walter E. Clark, the group after lengthy consideration voted to set aside the last week of each school semester for final examinations. Under this scheme, from two to three hours can be devoted to tests in every course. This change is in keeping with the policies of the majority of the other western colleges. Many other duties confront the faculty in its yearly work. Approval must be given candidates for graduation, committees investigate probable recipients of scholarships and establish rules for student conduct.

New rulings for the removal of conditions went into effect this year. A fee of one dollar fifty cents is charged for permission to make up work necessary to remove the condition. If the condition is not removed in the semester following its occurrence, it automatically becomes a failure. A Faculty Club consisting of all members of the faculty acts in a social-educational sphere. Meetings are held regularly at which time members of the group or prominent outside speakers give interesting and descriptive phases of various topics. Acting independently, but following the same procedure is the Women's Faculty Club, composed of the wives of faculty members. Once each semester, a joint dinner meeting is held.

A new distinction was gained by Nevada as a university in the recent election of Cecil W. Creel, director of the University of Nevada Agricultural Extension Service, to the presidency of the Association of Land Grant Colleges and Universities at this year's meeting of that organization in Washington. The attainment of this position made the second Nevada staff member to head a national organization of institutions of higher learning, Dr. Clark having served as President of the National Association of State Universities. This appointment was especially significant since only two other land grant colleges, South Dakota and Alaska, have smaller enrollments than Nevada.

STUDENT GOVERNMENT

The A. S. U. N. meets to see moving pictures.

Associated Students

President Richard L. Taw presided both semesters over the largest student body ever registered at the University of Nevada. The Associated Students of the University are organized to transact business concerning any of their affairs. A ten-dollar fee is charged for membership, split between athletics and other activities. Major issue of the year was the Student Union Building Petition which was approved by the regents but defeated later by the students themselves. A big accomplishment was the revision of the A. S. U. N. Constitution. Taw, who came from Lovelock, Nevada, was president also of Beta Kappa Fraternity. Appointed by the Senate was Charlotte Caton, secretary of the student body. Generally a smooth running year, Dick Taw was considered an outstanding president.

Student Body President Richard Taw

The A. S. U. N. meets in the bleachers for the first time.

Associated Women President Elizabeth Naismith

Associated Women

All women students of the University are automatically members of the Associated Women Students. President this year was Elizabeth Naismith, member of Gamma Phi Beta Sorority. Empowered to appoint all A. W. S. Committees, subject to approval by an Executive Board, President Naismith had greater activity in her organization than in most years. This year A. W. S., in revising its constitution, abolished the president's office. Taking its place will be a chairman selected from women's Senate representatives from from women's Senate representatives. Outstanding project of the women for the fall semester was the annual Fashion Show. A series of card parties was held this year to raise money for its twenty-five-dollar scholarship to the women receiving the highest general average.

Alumni President Alan Bible

Alan Bible, class of '30, was elected president of Nevada's Alumni Association at the yearly meeting held at the Riverside Hotel during Homecoming. Mr. Bible, who is now in the law offices of McCarran, Rice & Bible, was chosen by a general vote of the group. The Homecoming meeting is augmented by meetings of Washington, New York City, Los Angeles and Honolulu alumni. Present committee has hopes of setting aside Mackay Day wherever Nevada students live for a second annual Get-together Day. This year, leaders in each of the Nevada communities arranged for meetings during the spring. If sufficient cooperation is received, Mackay Day will be celebrated wherever Nevada alumni are found.

This year brought an unexpected turnover of Graduate Managers when on January first Robert Creps resigned. Walter States was appointed by Finance Control to succeed him. He in turn was replaced by Max Jensen in March. States, the fourth man ever to hold the position, graduated from the University in December. During his college career he was active in Coffin and Keys, Blue Key and as business manager of the Sagebrush. Max Jensen, the third manager of the year, was organizations and prominent in student also a member in campus service publications. Principal duties of the position are to keep all books for campus organizations belonging to the Central Treasury, and to act as secretary to Finance Control. He also functionary to Finance Control.

Graduate Manager Walter States

Finance Control

Full control of all A. S. U. N. finances is vested in the Finance Control Committee which is composed of two members of the faculty, one of whom acts as chairman, the Student Body President, and two members at large from the senate, one of whom must be a woman. Non-voting members of the committee consist of the Graduate Manager and one delegate chosen by each of the organizations participating in the Central Treasury. Responsibilities consist of taking charge of the finances of all A. S. U. N. organizations which share in the operation of the Treasury, determining what organizations shall be allowed the privileges of the Treasury, appointing the Graduate Manager, fixing his salary and assigning his duties, determining the salaries of any students serving the A. S. U. N., considering budgets presented by student organizations which make money or use A. S. U. N. money, and in general making both ends meet. Chairman F. W. Wilson, Professor of Animal Husbandry, and F. L. Bixby, Professor of Civil Engineering, are the faculty members. Greatest resistance to Finance Control's methods comes from the women, whose budgets are constantly slashed.

A. S. U. N. Senate

Under the leadership of President Richard L. Taw, the A. S. U. N. Senate, composed of one representative from the Independents, the Hall Associations, each recognized social sorority and fraternity, and the president of the A. W. S., took charge of student legislative affairs. Tenure of office for each member extends over one year, beginning in May. It is their duty to elect, upon the recommendation of the Nominating Committee, representatives to all important committees and the Chairman of the Men's and Women's Upperclass Committees; to grant or refuse recognition to new student organizations and to disband student organizations which serve no useful purpose. In general, to exercise supervisory control over all student activities.

A. S. U. N. Senate

Weightiest problem with which their group has been confronted concerned the possible erection of a new Student Union Building. Architects were employed to draw up plans for the structure and a petition circulated among the students. All that remained to make the possibility a reality within a period of eight years was for the students to vote for a raise in student body fees—complete failure of plans resulted. Lack of organization and parliamentary from caused the customary yearly revision of the constitution under the supervision of R. S. Griffin and Committee Chairman Clyde Keegel. Important among these revisions were changes in eligibility for heads of publications, class elections, abolishment of A. W. S. presidency.

Executive Committeemen: Max Jensen, Elizabeth Naismith, President Taw, Hudson Lee, Secretary Charlotte Caton

Executive authority of the Associated Students is vested in this committee. It is a sub-committee of the Senate consisting of the Student Body President and four other students. Called the Executive Committee, it passes on interpretations of the constitution and official awards.

Senate Committees

Appointed from within the Senate by the President at the first regular meeting of the group. Consists of three fraternity or sorority members and two non-fraternity or non-sorority members. Called the Nominating Committee, it names important committees.

Nominating Committee: Heemen, Kathleen Meeks, Max Jensen, Clyde Keegel, Barbara Ferron, Donald Kinkel

Committeewomen: Jessie McClure, Georgia Cooper, Eunyce Beckley, Chairman Nina Boczkiewicz, Avenell Manzonie, Christie Hermansen

The Women's Upperclass Committee's duty is to enforce all University traditions among the women and to punish violators. It consists of a chairman chosen by Senate, nine upperclass women recommended by Nominating Committee and approved by Senate.

Upperclass Committees

The Men's Upperclass Committee is responsible for enforcing Nevada's traditions among the men students. Consists of ten members recommended by the Nominating Committee and approved by the Senate. All campus clean-ups are supervised by them.

Committeemen: Hollis McKinnon, James Sullivan, Donald Cole, Stanford McNair, Grant Kennedy, Donald Leighton, Edward Pine, Kenneth Powell, William Goodin, Richard Roche

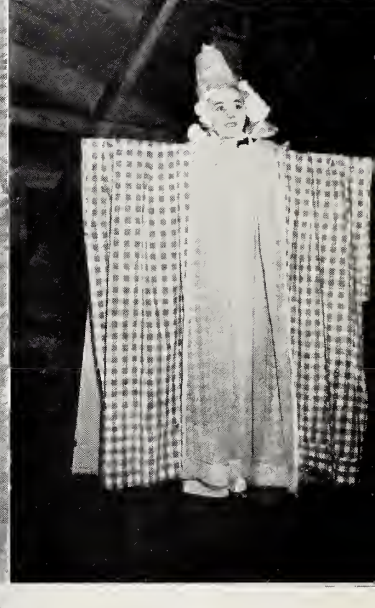

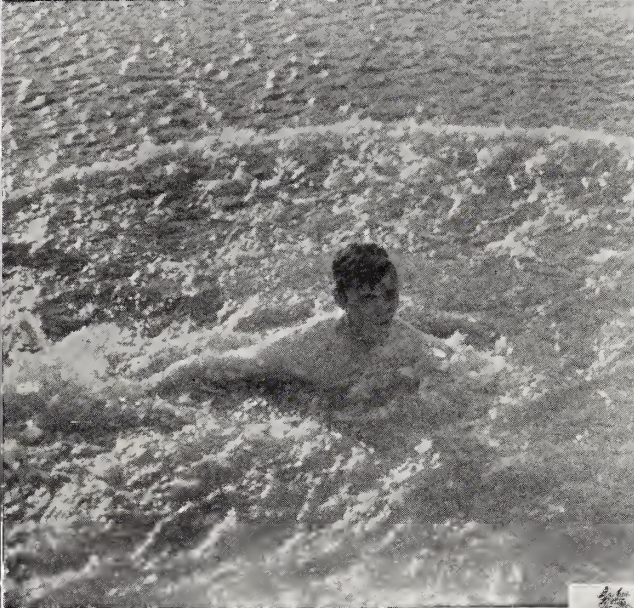

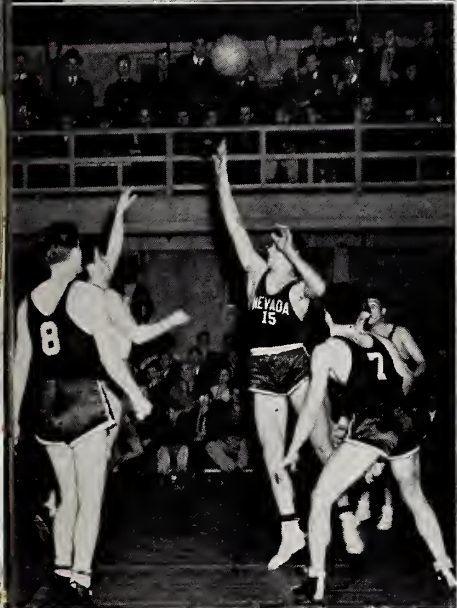

THE YEAR'S

HIGH POINTS

Some have claimed that a student learns nearly as much from extra-curricular work as in the classrooms. Whether true or not, publications occupy the time of many Nevada students. At right is a shot of the annual Press Convention for aspiring high school publication heads. At left, heads of the new "Buck-of-the-Month" Club, organized to aid Nevada athletes. At right, one of the "socials" held in the gymnasium. At extreme right, the "Hug-o-meter," a device for admission to the Engineers' Brawl. Below, basketball starts. A "laking" in Manzanita to enforce campus traditions. Right, a prize-winner at the Tri-Delt "She-Jinks." Below, students elected in the Spring to Phi Kappa Phi. Gift Day, with paintings of past presidents presented to Nevada. At right, the year ends.

NEVADA'S 1938

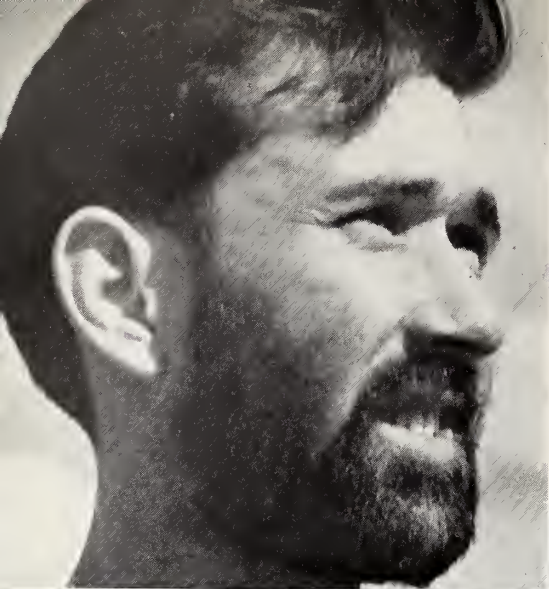

The annual Homecoming Celebration in honor of the grads is held each year during the fall semester. Every campus organization, including sororities and fraternities, do their bit to make it an interesting event. Upper left, Freshmen put a new coat of whitewash on the "N." Standard Oil tests their announcing equipment for the game while students gather around the bonfire for the pre-game rally. Thetas decorate their almost winning float. Upper right, the committee that planned the affair: Standing, Goodin, Dorsey, Strong, Sheppard, Albright and Ashworth; sitting, Yriberry, Swett, Morris, Gardella and Peraldo. Center, Phi Sigs entertain a hilarious campus at their annual street dance. Lower right, members of the press at the game with C. O. P.

HOME COMING

THIS WAS NEVADA'S

Set aside for the purpose of paying tribute to Clarence Mackay, this year's Mackay Day was one of the most hilarious since its inauguration. Six weeks prior to the day, all razors were discarded. Beginning upper left, are varying degrees of success from the dense foliage of Louis Peraldo, an English style modeled by Al Caton, and the "face on the barroom floor" by Ross Morris; Morehouse—he tried. Friday before Mackay Day brought forth costumes, mock weddings, the Theta horse and carriage. Highlight of the day was the annual Coffin and Key's Running, and their battle on Manzanital Lake. At right four girls, L. Collins, M. Heidtman, V. Raitt, C. Stewart appear in '49 styles.

BEST MACKAY DAY

MACKAY DAY TRADITIONS

Most traditions of Mackay Day have remained unchanged for years. This spring the committee established new customs that seem good enough to be permanent. At right, Father Thomas, from the campus chapel, standing beneath the statue keynotes the Mackay Day work. Below, surveying and raking the baseball diamond. Each fraternity is assigned to a part of the campus to clean up. Work attendance is checked, a trophy given for the highest percentage of men present. Above, Sheriffs Keegel and Pine with men "arrested" for not wearing costumes on Friday and Saturday. A "kangaroo" court was held on the campus, the criminals given their choice of voluntary laking. Most shown below, are thrown in. Below, the Frosh-Soph Field Day.

CLASSES

President Ben Morehouse

Seniors

Of the one thousand men and women on the campus some one hundred and forty soberly took the traditional last look at their university and quietly retired from four years of undergraduate life. Rendered reflective by the prospects ahead of them, and exhausted by the frenzied activities of Senior Week, most were grateful for Commencement and relative peace and quiet. Big events in this hectic week are the Senior Picnic and the Senior Ball, social high in the college year. Headed by Chairman Kenneth Tedford, Clyde Keegel, Russel McDonald and Charles Doherty, the Senior Week committees gave to Seniors all that was expected and more. Notable for their stand on tradition repeal, this year's Seniors were the last class to wear dinks as Freshmen. Under class management of Ben Morehouse, reinstatement of the dink and anti-queening laws in the library were but two results of their efforts. As a final gesture and in keeping with precedent, Seniors, through a committee headed by Russel McDonald, presented the University with an appropriate gift.

Senior Week Committee: Morehouse, McDonald, Tedford, Doherty, Keegel

JESSIE McCLURE—Jessie is a member of Phi Kappa Phi, made the Honor Roll for four years, has received two scholarships. She also was president of Pi Beta Phi sorority, in the Senate, Finance Control, and several plays.

LLEWELLYN YOUNG—Lew was a member of Nu Eta Epsilon, Honor Roll man, was president of the Associated Engineers. He was a member of Beta Kappa fraternity, played basketball, headed the Math Club and the Electrical Engineers.

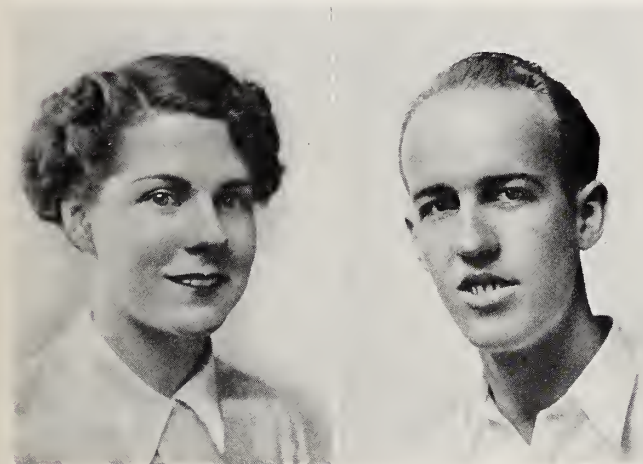

ELIZABETH NAISMITH—Betty was president of the Associated Women Students. She served in the student Senate, was a member of Gamma Phi Beta sorority, served on the Sagebrush staff, rifle team, the college "Who's Who."

RICHARD TAW—Dick was president of Associated Students, was a member of Coffin and Keys, student Senate, Beta Kappa fraternity, was on the Honor Roll, holder of two scholarships, member of Omega Mu Iota, Inter-Fraternity Council.

Selected by their class in a secret ballot conducted by the Artemisia, these students were chosen for this honor on a basis of service to their University, scholarship, ability and activity.

The Eight Outstanding Seniors

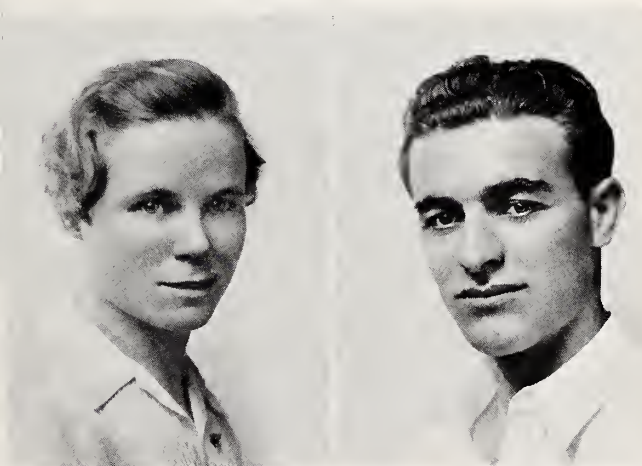

ELIZABETH OSBORN—Ozzy was Honorary Major this year. She was a member of Chi Delta Phi, Women's Upperclass Committee, Honor Roll member. She belonged to Kappa Alpha Theta sorority, was active in forensics and A. W. S.

MAX JENSEN—Max has been in the student Senate, a member of the Sagebrush staff for four years, on Publications Board, Press Club President. He headed the organized Independents, Coffin and Keys. He is the new Graduate Manager.

WINIFRED HILTONEN—Winny was in Senate, on the Sagebrush for four years. She was a member of Manzanita Hall Association, on the Publications Board, Upperclass Committee, Cap and Scroll, Chi Delta Phi, Sagens, College Who's Who.

JOHN BRACKETT—John has been most active in publications. He was editor this year of Sagebrush. He also was on the Artemisia staff, in Italic N, Blue Key, Coffin and Keys, the Press Club, and Publications Board.

Junior Class

A Junior's time is for the most part spent in preparation for the year when he will be a Senior. It is during this period that his efforts are most fruitful in obtaining recognition from his fellow students. The Junior Prom, outstanding formal event of the fall semester, is sponsored by this class. This year's Prom, held at the Century Club, under the direction of Chairman Leo Doyle, featured "Swing" as a theme for programs and decoration. Entertainment was provided by the Co-ed Quartet and the Theta-Sigma Nu Chorus. Junior Cut Day during the latter part of April provides a welcome respite from classes as well as an opportunity to celebrate the hoped-for Senior rating. Many of the more studious members prefer to attend classes as usual, others just enjoy the day in general instead of attending the picnic scheduled for this time. Often members of other classes are to be found among the ranks of the Juniors at this affair. As a final gesture to the departing Seniors, this class again plays the roll of host at the Senior Ball. The Ball is a formal affair and is equaled in elaborateness only by the Military Ball. Plans for this year promise a novel and interesting event for the last Friday night of the school year.

President Louis Peraldo

Sophomores

The class of '40 under the spirited and efficient leadership of Louis Peraldo has been a revelation in activity to the entire campus. Without doubt their annual semi-formal Hop held in September at the State Building was the most novel dance staged. The theme of "September in the Rain" was carried out in the manner of an experienced showman. The advertising for the affair was unusual in that a colorful parade past fraternity and sorority houses as well as through the campus was staged. Louis Peraldo and Tony Yriberry alternated as master of ceremonies. Early in the Fall semester, the Senate gave Class Manager Peraldo the power to appoint a Sophomore Vigilance Committee to work under control of the Men's Upperclass Committee. This marked the revival of the group which has been dormant since the abolition of numerous traditions in the fall of 1934. The committee consisted of three members from each male group on the campus, subject to the approval of the Senate. It was the duty of the Vigilance Committee to apprehend any Freshman whom they found violating one of the campus traditions.

Freshmen

Along with the revival of campus traditions came an all-time record enrollment of Freshmen upon whom to impress the importance of obeying rules set down by their superiors. Song books, "bibles," and "dinks" were put on sale at the graduate manager's office as an aid to both the bewildered novice and the A. S. U. N. Treasurer. Orientation classes were, as usual, provided to instruct yearlings in Nevada's ways. This was a subject to be mastered or dire consequences would be suffered at the hands of the Men's and Women's Upperclass Committees. In order that their education was well-rounded, manual labor and the homey arts were practiced on the occasion of their semesterly painting of the "N." The men white-washed while the women carried water and unpacked the lunch. After the lessons on behavior had been impressed upon them, this class opened the second semester's social season with the Frosh Glee, a semi-formal affair held at the State Building in January. Campus interest, usually dormant at this time, was aroused with the announcement by Dance Committee Chairman Herb Winer of a "big surprise" at the dance, which did not materialize. Later in the Spring semester, a Frosh-Soph field day was held.

S. FRANK HUNT FOUNDATION

Artemisia

An annual record of the student year is preserved in the Artemisia, Nevada's Yearbook. Attempted this year was the publication of an annual that would give any reader an accurate insight to the University and its students. The editorial staff was organized as follows: Associate Editor: Gordon Macdonald. Assistant Editors: Gertrude Polander, Charlotte Caton, Kenneth Dimock. Sports Editor: Clarence Heckethorn. Class Editor: Jean Rice; Staff, Betty Grutt, Mary Read, Nina Boczkiewicz. Activity Editor: Charlotte Caton; Staff; Max Jensen, Kathleen Meeks, David

Artemisia

Two sources of income are given the Artemisia. Advertising furnishes over a third, A. S. U. N. fees and activity assessments the bulk of the remaining funds. The manager not only supervises the "ad-chasing," but also worries over balancing the budget, discouraging the editor's expensive activities. To offset extravagances, yet maintain the standard produced a nerve-racking problem for the manager. Though rarely a profit is realized, if one occurs one-third of it goes to Publications Board, one-third to Central Treasury, and one-third to the editor and manager. Organization of the business staff is as follows: Assistant Business Manager: Francis Breen. Advertising Staff: Margarey Gusewell, Kathryn Devlin. Ad Solicitors: Robert Van Wagoner, Frank Schumacher, Fraser West, Milton Mapes, Lee Strauch, Jack Pieri, Donald Downs, Robert McCleod, Virginia Heany. Secretarial Staff Manager: Lois Miller; Staff: Thelma Armstrong, Grace Cantlon.

Sagebrush

Another business "recession" kept members of the Sagebrush Business Staff hustling to get ads. Willis Dalzell spent many a Wednesday night worrying where to get the hundred inches necessary to run six pages. Besides supervising the funds of the newspaper, the business staff served as a useful outlet for the energies of a large number of ad-chasers. Staff organization: E. Gardella, Women's Manager; R. Director Sybil Furchner

News Bureau

News Bureau has once again been revived after falling into inactivity last year when Director Sherwin Garside resigned because of lack of adequate financing given the service. Sybil Furchner chose a staff of sixteen last fall and renewed the activity of a valuable news agency. Members of the staff collect news of students at Nevada, send it to their home papers. Prime purpose of this organization is to interest prospective college students in the University of Nevada and to send items of news to newspapers that will arouse interest in the citizens of the state. For the first part of the year the Bureau occupied offices connected with the Artemisia offices. When A. W. S. failed to make use of their offices in the Student Union Building, News Bureau occupied that space. This service functions by sending out news to approximately fifteen Nevada papers each week. Those receiving news most regularly include Battle Mountain Scout, Carson Daily Appeal, Elko Free Press, Ely Daily Times and Fallon Eagle.

Publications Board

Members of the Publications Board were kept extremely busy this year supervising the various university publications. Created several years ago by the Senate, this board plays an important part in campus news organs, whose affairs and policies it directs. It consists of the Editors and Business Managers of both the Artemisia and the Sagebrush as well as three other members, who are acquainted with both publications and appointed by the Senate. Each member of the board serves for a term of one year unless forced to resign. This board has the task of selecting the heads of the publications each year and sets the standards, through the A. S. U. N. constitution, for the eligibility of the heads. At the termination of the Spring semester the newly-elected officers honor the outgoing members with a banquet. This year, however, two banquets were held. The extra function was made possible by a profit on publications the previous years which was given to the board to promote better conditions for its charges.

Press Club

An organization of students in journalism and outstanding members of the staffs of the campus publications gathered together for the purpose of stimulating interest in the professional field. Requirements consist of the completion of at least one year of successful work on the staff of some University publication or a year of work in the journalism department. Outstanding event sponsored by this group is the annual Prep School Editors' Conclave held during the fall semester. At round-table discussions, luncheons and dinner meetings, high school editors and business managers present their problems to experienced men capable of giving valuable suggestions.

The luncheons and dinners were sponsored by the various fraternity and sorority houses who find at the meetings a valuable source of potential rushing material. Highlights of the meet were inspection trips to the Reno Printing Company and United Press Bureau and a banquet at the El Cortez Hotel.

Campus Players

What Sagers is to Blue Key, what Garner is to Roosevelt, so is Campus Players to Masque and Dagger. Although treated as a stepping stone to the national honorary society, it serves a real purpose on the Nevada campus. While not directly responsible for campus productions it lends considerable impetus to participation in them. One of the outstanding features of this club is that not only is dramatic ability rewarded, but students who work on properties and those on the stage crew as well, receive recognition. Election of new members and their consequent initiation is of a riotous nature, with entertainment by neophytes possessed with latent ability. The privilege of belonging to Campus Players is one incentive which, however, is overshadowed by the opportunity to attend banquets following the final performance of every production. After attaining membership in this organization, students are eligible for election into Masque and Dagger.

"THE ROYAL FAMILY"

Dramatics students at Nevada yearly put on a series of outstanding plays. This season "The Royal Family," a farce on the stormy life of the Barrymores, was presented during the fall. Below are two shots. The cast was headed by Kathleen Meeks, Evelyn Bulmer and David Goldwater. The play was considered the best performance of the year. At right is a series of pictures on the steps in makeup. Subject Evelyn Bulmer is shown at the top before any paint was applied. Second, grease and dark and light lines are applied. Third, the lines are fined by another coat of powder. Last, lipstick is applied, eyebrows darkened, her hair silvered, another coat of powder applied. Her makeup complete, the subject must remember not to blow her nose or scratch her face.

"TWELFTH NIGHT"

Wearing costumes that lent a true Elizabethan age atmosphere, Masque and Dagger members and pledges presented Shakespeare's famous comedy "Twelfth Night" as the first production of the spring semester. Forged letters, low comedy, masquerade, and other forms of intrigue were all combined to make the show a quick-moving laugh-getter. Malvolio, sick with self-love, ably portrayed by Leo Doyle, is seen directly to the right. The famous "cellar" or "drunkard" scene is shown below with Kathleen Meeks playing the part of the minx Maria, Wilma Jones portraying the clown Fest, and down but not out is Robert Van Wagoner who played the part of the drunken Sir Toby Belch. Evelyn Bulmer and Jessie McClure are pictured here as Olivia and Viola.

THE WOLVES FROLIC,

An annual feature of the Homecoming celebration is the Wolves Frolic. It is put on by the students and coached by William C. Miller, dramatics instructor. This year the show was held on a Thursday night. At left, pipe in mouth, is Duane Collins, playing the bass violin at the lengthy dress-rehearsal. Below him is the "Peckin' Chorus" which nearly stole the show. At their right is Kappa Alpha Theta's cast resting between acts. At left center is a part of Alpha Tau Omega's skit. Next to them the piano team of Beattie and Nesbitt. To their right is a snap of the chorus. At lower right are more A. T. O.'s. Center is Lambda Chi Alpha's skeleton act, complete with piccolo-player Hal Lang. At lower right is Coach Miller, snapped riding a bicycle from the Delta Delta Delta skit.

NEVADA'S VARIETY SHOW

Months prior to the performance, rehearsals for the Frolic start. Nearly every fraternity and sorority enter acts, as well as students with singing and dancing ability. At right is shown Cliff Malone and Kirk Fairhurst, members of Sigma Alpha Epsilon skit resting at rehearsal. Below is a novel act appearing in the Frolic for the first time, the Theta-Sigma Nu double quartet. Sigma Nu, in a series of imitations led by Leo Doyle as President Roosevelt, won the fraternity trophy. At right of the singers is the stage crew. Center left are three candid shots of performers at the Frolic watching the show. Lower left is A. T. O.'s act at rehearsal. Forensics

Among all intercollegiate contacts made by Nevada students, debate and forensics have warranted and received the most consistently approving publicity for the University of any of the activities mentioned in Western college papers. Under the direction of Professor Robert Griffin, last year the Nevada contingent, composed of Bryce Rhodes and William Cashill, carried off first honors in the Western States Conference held at Stockton, California. Would-be debaters gathered enthusiastically during the Fall semester to start training for the continuance of Nevada's good record. In November a delegation from Nevada entered the contests sponsored by the Western Association of the Teachers of Speech held at Bakersfield, California. The group included two teams composed of Francis Breen, Leo McCudden, Robert Joy and Homer Herz. The Intramural contests which ended in the early part of the Spring semester were conducted by seven entrants. The results of this tournament gave the team of Andrew Rosaschi and Robert Parker first place.

Forensics

Seven students made the trip to Stockton, California, for the Western States Tournament on April 7, 8, 9. Francis Breen, Homer Herz, Leo McCudden and David Goldwater entered men's debate and the extemporaneous contest. Eunice Beckley and Katherine Devlin entered women's debate. Robert Joy contested for the oratorical award. As the results of this attempt to defend Nevada's forensic title will not be known before the Artemisia goes to press, we cannot assure the success of the squad, but if Nevada does not bring home a victory for the second time, we are sure of an excellent record there. On April 11, 12 and 13, the University of Nevada played host to the Pacific Forensic League, which corresponds roughly to the Western Athletic Conference and includes the following schools: Stanford, U. S. C., Whitman College, U. of Oregon, Oregon State College, Willamette U., U. C. L. A., U. of Arizona, U. of Idaho, Pomona College, U. of Washington, U. of Nevada.

Campus Singers

The University of Nevada Music Department is fortunate in having for its head Professor Theodore H. Post. Professor Post was graduated from the New England Conservatory of Music in 1918. After four years of the study of music at Washington College, he was awarded his A.B. degree in music. Going further, he studied at Harvard University and was presented an M.A. degree in music in 1926. One year later he received the position of Professor and Director of music at the University of Nevada. The years he has spent here have been notable for his activity in the music department. A group of his most talented singers, composed of sixteen members and bearing the name Campus Singers, represented the University on several public occasions. The outstanding appearance was an arrangement of songs presented at "College Night" from the stage of the Granada Theater. This group also sings in all the Music Department productions, and at the commencement exercises.

The Campus Singers practice for "College Night."

Univ.-Community Singers

This group, under the leadership of Professor Theodore Post, has become the most active in the Music Department. All songsters in Reno and those on the campus combine their voices in practice every Wednesday night. On December 12, in the afternoon, and on the evening of December 15, the University of Nevada Department of Music presented the Community Orchestra in the oratorio, "The Messiah" by George Frederick Handel. Soloists were Miss Lois Stodieck, soprano; Mrs. Nine Marie Klise, contralto; Mr. Orson Klise, tenor; Mr. Vernon Armstrong, baritone, and Mrs. Mary Adaline Atchison, accompanist; Mrs. Harriet Ihrig, director of the strings. Gala musical event of the season was the presentation of Brahms' famous "German Requiem." Brahms' "Requiem" originally was written "to be sung annually in commemoration of the Faithful Departed, or on the anniversaries of the decease of particular persons, or on such other occasions as may be dictated by feeling of public respect or individual piety."

Band

Nevada's band is given the credit by many as being one of the best organized bands in the West. During the summer, detailed plans for new and original stunts and maneuvers were worked out by Professor Theodore Post and Assistant Director Reuben Tuttle. During practices much time was spent in rehearsing marching numbers and considerable drill was given in perfecting the performance of the new maneuvers. Large in number and dressed in uniforms of Nevada's colors, this group made impressive appearances at football games, rallies, and in the participation in Reno Bridge Celebration, September 10.

At all these affairs, Drum-Major Hal Lang was ably assisted by the twirling batons of Mardelle Brown, Marie Belz, Sue Hicks, Helen Collins and Glenda Talcott. Due to the increased number of players it was necessary to provide a band platform in front of the bleachers on the east side of Mackay field. The group also showed a social side as was illustrated by their holding the second annual Lyre dance on February 26. Under the guidance of Director Theodore Post and Assistant Director Reuben Tuttle, this group received the honor of being asked to the State High School Band Festival in Las Vegas.

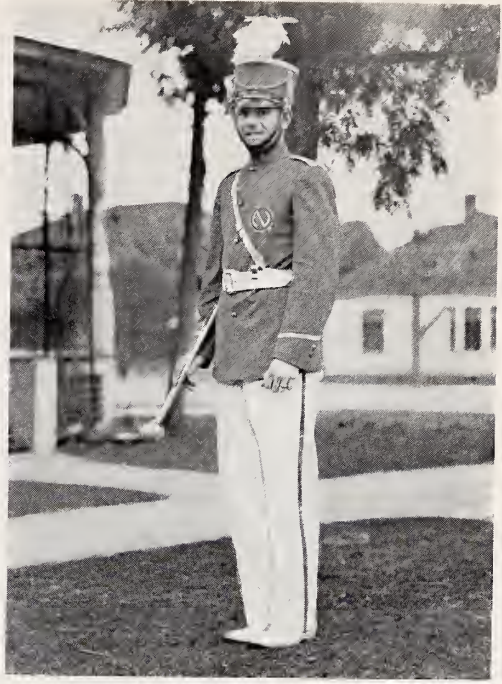

Nevada's band marches in the Admission Day parade.

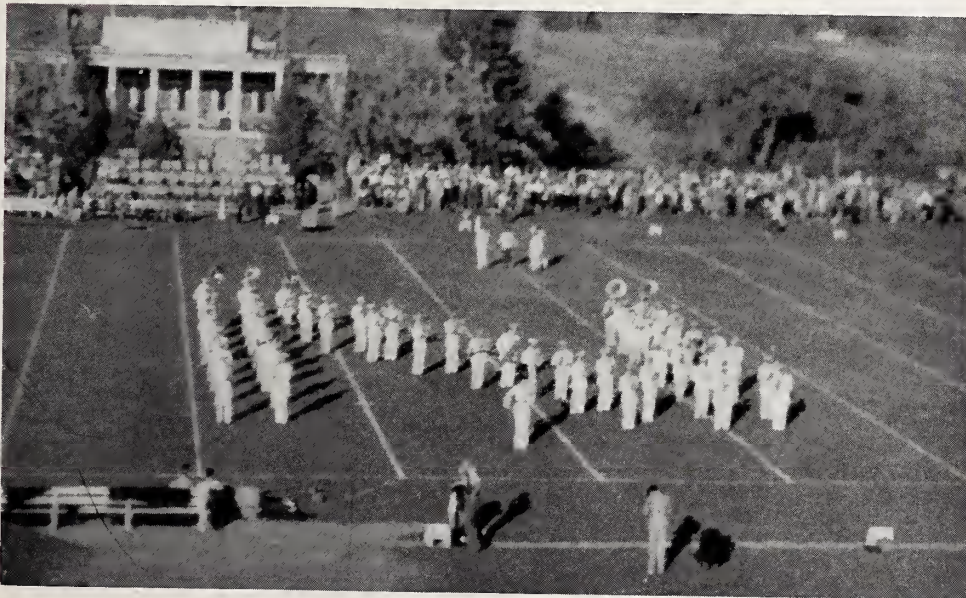

Band

The largest number ever to turn out for band in the history of the school was realized this year when the membership reached eighty-two. Due to the increased number of players, it was necessary to provide for a band platform to be built in front of the bleachers on the east side of Mackay field. In previous years, the band assembled on the grass at the end of the bleachers and could not be seen from all angles of the field. With the new platform, students in the cheering section were able to hear the band and follow better in the yells and songs. On the field, the band made an outstanding appearance in the navy blue and white uniforms. Many new and effective maneuvers were presented which aroused cheers from the crowds of students and townspeople. The most picturesque of these was the "Block 'N'" formation with the letters spelling "University of Nevada Band" cleverly arranged on the larger instruments. Feminine interest in music was displayed this year in the activity, which until the past few years was a field occupied by the men. A new Scotch drum was played with the bell lyre replacing the old one, and this added much to the appearance of the band in its marching maneuvers.

Colonel William F. Reed

Military

After three years at the head of the University of Nevada's Military Department, Colonel William F. Reed ends a long and active military career on October 30 of this year when his retirement becomes effective. Born in New Jersey, he attended the City College of New York, and began his army life at the United States Military Academy in 1895. His rise thereafter was rapid—a second lieutenant in 1899, a first lieutenant in 1901, captain in 1907, major in 1917, lieutenant-colonel in 1920, and a colonel in 1923. He served in the World War, the Philippine Insurrection, the Spanish-American War, and the Mexican border fracas. He was appointed R. O. T. C. Officer in Atlanta, Georgia, in 1932; came to Nevada in 1935. Hard-boiled, caustic, a keen judge of men, he scares new cadets half to death, but gets results from them that are almost unbelievable. In each of his three years at Nevada, the army has recognized his work by giving cadets the army's highest rating—"excellent." As soon as the semester ends, Colonel Reed will leave for his home in San Rafael, California; doesn't know "just what he'll do except take life easy."

Cadet Major Leaver, Cadet Adjutant Shone, Cadet Supply Sergeant Evans

Military

Also leaving Nevada this year is Captain Henry Wyatt Isbell. Born in Isbell, Alabama (named for his grandfather), he wanted to become an archeologist, was a railroad clerk in Portsmouth, Virginia, until 1917 when he entered the Second Officers' Training Corps in August of that year. Since then he has served in Nicaragua, Hawaii, Michigan, Washington and points between. Coming to Nevada, his first assignment as an R. O. T. C. instructor, was in August of 1934. When his job ends, he will have completed seventeen years of family life, will be promoted to the rank of major. Besides commanding the cadets on drill day and lecturing to them three days a week, Isbell, with Sergeant Grant Hustis, has charge of the Rifle Team, which this year found itself at the bottom of Ninth Corps area competition same as last year. Composed of thirteen men, ten still shot well enough to receive the Military Department Circle N award.

Scabbard and Blade

Scabbard and Blade, national honorary military society, founded thirty-four years ago at the University of Wisconsin, had its beginning at Nevada on April 29, 1929. Twenty-six thousand outstanding R. O. T. C. Cadet officers, of which Nevada contributes thirty, make up the national membership in seventy-eight chapters distributed in forty-five states. The big event of the year is the Military Ball, which is assured of financial success, at least, by the fact that every cadet officer is given his quota of tickets, which, if he cannot sell, he must buy himself. To be chosen Honorary Major is the dream of every co-ed. Current Major is Kappa Alpha Theta's Elizabeth Osborn, whose duties are to preside with Colonel Reed at the Ball, present all honors to worthy cadets, and preside at the military inspection. This year's captain, Basil Kehoe, was elected last March and holds office until April, when succeeded by another captain.

THE MILITARY YEAR

The most colorful social function of the year is the Military Ball. It is held every winter by members of Scabbard and Blade who elected this year as Honorary Major, Elizabeth Osborn. At right she is seen at the start of the grand march of the Military Ball. Below, she marches with Colonel Reed past the new members. Next she is escorted by Basil Kehoe, ready to honor new officers. At the bottom, she is congratulating the officers. At top, center, the contestants gather at a tea. Below this, dancing at tea. At left is Captain Isbell watching maneuvers from a tree. Below, Nevada men at camp, testing gas masks and on a hike from their camp at Monterey military reservation. Below, students fire field pieces; some of Nevada's contingent at the summer camp.

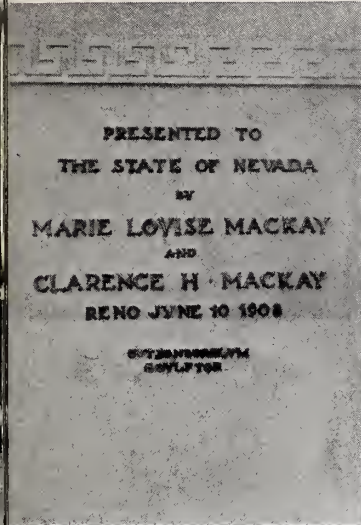

SPECIAL EVENTS

An old tradition at Nevada is the laking of freshmen for breaking traditions. Punishment is given out by the Upperclass Committee. Above, the frosh are given the privilege of undressing. Second, they are held by two committeemen. Third, he lands in the water, jumps up. Fourth, the frosh, sopping wet, heads for home. At right, coldest football game of the year brought out blankets, caps among the rooters. Extreme right, a familiar scene, the Mackay Statue. Below, Mary Mathews, Nevada Day Queen, in a parade. Right, President Richard Taw is congratulated by Election Board Chairman Christensen. Below, repairs on the A. S. U. N. Building roof. At right, Candid Cameraman Westover shoots a football player. Below, students working at the Wolf Den.

Phi Kappa Phi

*H*ighest honor that can be conferred upon a University of Nevada student is a bid for membership in Phi Kappa Phi. Phi Kappa Phi is the national honorary scholastic society and was established at Nevada University in 1912. Twelve and one-half per cent of the seniors of high scholastic standing are considered for membership. The choice is limited to ten per cent of this twelve and one-half per cent, but not to the upper ten per cent. Election is not based on scholarship alone, but indicates high character, leadership, good future promise, fine initiative, but, above all, scholarship. Elections are held by this group each semester, and the names of the members are announced at the student body meeting held in their honor at this time. Dr. James F. Bursch, director of research and assistant superintendent of the Sacramento city school system, spoke on the topic "What Is Scholarship?" At the evening meeting all Phi Kappa Phi active members attended in a body to hear another talk.

Nu Eta Epsilon

Nu Eta Epsilon, engineering scholastic fraternity, added four new members to its ranks last fall. The name, NuEta Epsilon, means "Nevada Honor Engineers" and is one of the highest honors which can be accorded to an engineering student. Recognizing outstanding scholastic ability in the engineering field, the upper one-tenth of the junior class is elected to the society during the fall semester, while, during the spring semester, members are elected so that of the senior engineering students, twenty-five per cent, are members of the honorary group. By being a member of this organization, the select group of students composing it are able to study certain phases of engineering which would be unobtainable from other places. Through the interest and ability of these students, many interesting things are studied outside of the school curriculum. The four members who were elected last semester are Eugene Grutt, Edward Pine, Marvin Moler and Guy Patterson.

Coffin and Keys

Gaudily-painted near-nudes over-ran the campus and entertained on Manzanita Lake again this spring, the Friday before Mackay Day, in the annual Coffin and Keys running. The neophytes caricatured Thimble Theater in two acts, while students bedecked in Western garb applauded. Only public appearance in person, voice or print of the group, the running this year featured a cast from the sophomore, junior and senior classes. Athletes, scholars and activity men filled the roles as members of the goon family and Popeye and his cohorts in the initiates' show. Membership in Coffin and Keys comes to those of the student body and faculty who have shown ability and leadership in student activity and general university improvement. Sporting one of the society's coffin-shaped emblems is generally considered among the top honors which a Nevada student may receive. The newly-initiated members were honored at a banquet held at the Colombo Cafe.

Cap and Scroll

Combining the ideals of scholarship and service, Cap and Scroll is the highest local women's honorary and corresponds to Mortar Board. Its purpose, to guide all feminine activities into a closer cooperation and harmony, is accomplished inconspicuously by the members who are the most outstanding senior women in point of service. Limitation of no more than ten per cent of the senior class keeps the group small, as does the scholarship requirement of a 2.3 average for four years of college work. At the instigation of Cap and Scroll, the constitution of A. W. S. was modified so that the presidency was abolished and chairmanship is held in rotation by the representatives of coed groups instead of by the candidate selected by popular choice. As part of their program, they sponsored various talks at A. W. S. meetings by outstanding women. A formal tea, given near the close of the spring semester for graduating seniors, is accounted one of the major events of the social season. Dinner meetings held at irregular intervals throughout the year provided opportunities for discussion.

Blue Key

Blue Key, national honorary service fraternity, exists to foster student spirit. Outstanding social function is its semi-annual "get-together" dance for the students during the first week of registration of both semesters. Another of its works is ushering at the University show, "The Wolves Frolic." Blue Key turned out an excellent piece of work this year when its campus directory of names and phone numbers appeared. Greatest single setback to the organization is the growing independence of its underclass companion, the Sagers. This year, the Sagers took over the traditional jobs of selling football programs, meeting trains, and defeated this group in a series of football games held during the halves of varsity games. Their most creditable piece of work this year was a banquet honoring Miss Louise M. Sissa, retired registrar. Their latest, most ambitious projects: Sponsoring the Buck of the Month Club, and campaigning for new buildings for the campus.

Sagens

Organized in 1935 a women's pep club group corresponding to the Sagers. Membership attained by trying out in its various activities. Every year the Sagens sponsor the "Buy a Brick" campaign which compels freshman girls to sell ten or more paper bricks at ten cents each to add to the fund for a new A. S. U. N. building. Most active during athletic contests in sponsoring the selling of ice cream to the spectators. Emphasizes their motto to perform at least one outstanding worthwhile deed during the year—this year the donation to the Rita Hope Winer Scholarship fund from the proceeds of their annual Sagens dance—a dance greatly anticipated by campus men—"the girls pay and pay." Brought many a laugh with their clever Homecoming float—a car fashioned of paper on a wooden frame, which the girls carried and performed the necessary actions of wheels and steering gear, raced through town.

Gothic N

These girls are the "he-men" of the Women's Athletic Association and the envy of many underclass women on the campus. Through several semesters of hard work these coeds must attain leadership in the various sports activities offered on the campus. In addition they must keep up their school work, have an average above that of most girls. They are recognized by their blue flannel jackets with a white felt gothic N sewed in very plain sight. This is the award received when they have met the requirements in athletics, scholarship and other activities, and have been elected to the organization by the active members.

The other award is a blue blanket with a wolf's head on it. This, the highest award, is won only in the senior year of their efforts, when the requirements of three varsity ratings is met. This year Gothic N put on a skit for the Intramural banquet held in the gymnasium during February. At a get-together, sponsored by this organization, the freshman girls were supervised in an indoor track meet and play-day during the spring semester.

Chi Delta Phi

Nevada's Alpha Tau chapter of Chi Delta Phi is a branch of a national women's honorary English society. Qualifications for membership include an average of ninety per cent in scholarship for three semesters and upperclass standing or outstanding literary achievement. Membership is not restricted to Nevada coeds but may be extended to writers off the campus. The purpose of the society is to encourage literary endeavor. To achieve this objective, Chi Delta Phi this year sponsored a state high school poetry contest, the winners of which were presented awards at the State Forensic Meet. Winnemucca and Reno high schools took first and second place respectively. Meetings are held every six weeks and emphasize the different customs, foods and literature of various foreign countries. Significant in the activities of the group was the entertainment of Miss Hazel Selby, national president. The society supported the Community Concert Association by taking charge of the campus sales of student tickets.

Omega Mu Iota

To promote scholarship and common interests, the pre-medical students of the University were organized as Omega Mu Iota in 1923. Confining its activities chiefly to business meetings, the fraternity this year has sponsored a great many enlightening, interesting lectures. At the first meeting, graduate pre-medical students of Nevada and of many universities throughout the country were the principal speakers. Talks given by Dr. Caples, Dr. Stadtherr, Dr. Parsons of Reno, and Dr. Meyer of the University of California were features of the meetings. These doctors gave instructional lectures on such topics as control of plagues, venereal diseases, extermination of germs, and other subjects of interest to the pre-medical students. One of the most interesting and entertaining talks of the year was given by Dr. Stadtherr who presented a lecture, illustrated by moving pictures, of one of the operations he performed. The closing meeting of the year was a dinner at the Riverside Hotel.

Delta Delta Epsilon

Delta Delta Epsilon, an honorary music society under the leadership of Professor Post, has been unusually active this year, has become a real asset. Their opportunities to serve the school are very limited, yet largely through their interest and hard work the Band has been given credit as being one of the best organized college bands on the Pacific Coast. The interest and co-operation shown by this group has been instrumental in securing new pieces for the band which ultimated in our music organization overshadowing all but very few similar groups, in nearby colleges. On the football and basketball trips, as well as those taken by the band to the Music Festival, it was found that the band was the nucleus for organization and handled its task well. The second Annual Lyre Dance, given this year under the supervision of Delta Delta Epsilon, however, was one of the "go-if-you-must" social functions of the year.

Y. W. C. A.

Boasting one of the largest memberships of any group on the campus, Y. W. C. A. has had difficulty at times finding enough to do. Waffle breakfasts were the solution and the sleep of the entire student body was interrupted on a series of Sunday mornings that Asilomar might benefit. Opinions of Nevadans on the war in Europe was the prevailing topic of discussion. However, more girls were able to attend the conference this year than ever before. By them, the affair was pronounced well worth the number of waffles consumed by you and me. Y. W. C. A. has had excellent projects this year in working with a girls' group from the Indian settlement and the Girl Reserve troops in Reno. The affair exemplifying the true spirit which the group is expected to display was a party given at the Orphans Home at Carson City. This effort was received with sufficient enthusiasm to warrant its establishment as an annual event.

Normal Club

All Normal students are organized into this group, which has for its purpose discussion of teaching problems arising in college work. A small organization, its members are those whose college attendance is limited to only two years. Not taking a great amount of interest in various functions and activities of the general campus, they must find their social relaxation in their own parties, picnics and meetings. This is necessary since sororities and other club memberships are denied them. Early in the fall semester a picnic was held at Bowers Mansion, during which each student introduced herself and told her life history. Members of the Education faculty were present, as well as many of last year's graduates. Attendance of meetings is stressed, for many subjects of educational interest are included in the program. Whenever possible, experienced educators are invited to speak to the group, and members are known for rarely missing a meeting. Projects related to teaching are discussed in meetings.

Newman Club

Founded four years ago, the Newman Club is an organization of Catholic students. Main purpose of the organization is to develop and preserve religious affiliations. Under the direction of Reverend John T. Smith, the organization has sponsored several social functions, which included a social for the entire campus. The meetings consist of church history and round-table discussions to give the student a background to combat anti-Catholic propaganda. Under the leadership of Patricia Davis, junior student, the club increased its membership through a well-planned drive to get students to join the organization. Lectures were given by Father Smith on the subjects of Nazism, Fascism and Communism, pointing out that Fascism tolerated religious freedom. Meetings were held at private homes and at the Rectory. At the first meetings of the fall semester the officers were elected. Those who were chosen are: President, Patricia Davis; Vice-President, Ed Barrett; Secretary, Helen Collins; Treasurer, Bernard Connolly.

BLOCK N STAG NIGHT AND THE TRI-DELTA SHE-JINKS

A revival of the old "he-jinks" was produced this year by the Block N Society, who called it "Stag Night," found themselves producers of an outstanding success. Features of the night were boxing matches and wrestling, speeches and tricks of magic. Shown at right are shots taken during the performance, which was held in the gym. Block N plans to make it a permanent show. Below at left is the women's equivalent of "Stag Night." The "She-Jinks," as it is called, is held annually by Delta Delta Delta in the gym. This year's theme was futuristic. Shown below are some of the winning costumes. A regular feature each year is the punishment of men who attempt to see the exclusive female show.

THE SKI CLUB

Block N Society

Regaining a large amount of lost prestige was major accomplishment of Nevada's letterman society this year. Under the leadership of John Robb, the group had one of its most active years on the campus, literally pulled itself from the middle of the swim to the safety of the bank in student opinion. Major accomplishment was presentation of the much-heralded, often-postponed Stag Night of last year. Amateur boxing, wrestling, talks and skits featured the first annual show, declared a success by all attendants. Student talent was featured in the night, which was successful financially also. Determination is to keep it going next year. Another project beneficial to the A. S. U. N. as a whole was accomplished when the group voted to reduce number of sweater awards, thereby saving money for a financially-pressed student body. Choosing an all-state high school football team took up most of the society's time during the first semester. Sponsoring of annual all-state high school track meet kept the sweatermen busy as the second semester drew to a close.

Aggie Club

To be eligible requires only enrollment in the College of Agriculture or membership in the department's faculty. Though they are included in this offer, the Aggie Club can boast of no women or record thereof on its rolls. Since its founding in 1909, the organization has been admirably active in promoting any and all things in its charge. Notable in this respect is their work with the Future Farmers of America. Somewhat at a loss on their arrival in Reno, Future Farmers are fed, quartered, and put through their paces with remarkable thoroughness. Under the guise of complimentary instruction, members listen to sales talks, rendered less tedious by motion pictures, from manufacturers of farm machinery. Their first action of the year was to challenge Engineers to a softball game. In the fall came their much-touted annual chicken trot with appropriate music and appointments. The Homecoming dance, finale of three days' celebration, another result of their effort, was a marked success. Although this year's stock show involved chickens only, they nevertheless gave a presentable show. Missing out on the Pacific National Stock Show, members had to be satisfied with a trip to the Baby Beef Show at San Francisco.

Associated Engineers

All students enrolled in the College of Engineering are eligible for membership in the organization. The purpose of the group is to further the development of engineering enterprise in the student and attempt to create a close contact between the undergraduate and the practicing engineer. Work on the numerous projects exhibited on Engineers' Day, coupled with frequent meetings given to lectures and discussions on engineering problems, provides members with ample opportunity for learning. President Llewellyn Young was notable for his part in bringing about these opportunities. Highlights in the year's activities are the Engineers' Brawl in October, followed by Engineers' Day in the spring. As in years previous the "Brawl" committee, under Chairman Clyde Keegel, was composed of members from the four schools of engineering. Considered one of the "must go" dances on the campus social calendar, the "Brawl," as it has been in the past, was more than good entertainment. Decorations were in the form of engineering exhibits, and diversion was provided largely by the antics of guests on their arrival via mine skip and ore chute. The charge for admission was based on the compressive strength of women as shown on the "Hug-o-meter" built by the committee.

Crucible Club

Mining undergraduates, preferably those affiliated with the student branch of the American Institute of Mining and Metallurgical Engineers, are eligible for membership in the Crucible Club. Encouraged by the A. I. M. E. and strongly supported by the mining faculty, the group can boast a membership of all mining students. Organized with the intent of furthering interest in mining and bringing mining students in close contact with practicing engineers, the group has succeeded in both. This year's president, Richard Thornmeyer, presided at meetings given over to discussions and lectures on mines and milling. Notable were the original papers presented by students. Highlights in club doings were the trips to the National Convention of the A. I. M. E. at Salt Lake City and the meeting of the Nevada section at Ely. At Salt Lake City students met such mining notables as D. C. Jackling, Guy N. Bjorge and Senator Pittman, inspected operations en route.

Civil Engineers

As are all other engineering societies on the campus the Civil Engineers are affiliated with a parent association. In this case the American Society of Civil Engineers. All those registered in this branch of engineering automatically become members. The organization serves to provide incentive for the student and maintain contact with other branches throughout the United States. This national cooperation makes possible a caliber of extra-curricular activity impossible for a local organization otherwise to attain. This year's president is Edward Pine. Faculty Advisor, the Engineering Faculty's most fluent story-teller, Professor F. L. Bixby. Inspection trips were made to Boca Dam, Municipal Sewage Disposal Plant, Metropolitan Water District of Los Angeles, State Testing Laboratories, Mono Tunnels, and nearby railway structures. Of Special interest were lectures by U. S. Bureau of Reclamation's L. J. Foster and Truckee River Watermaster Dukes. Interesting papers were also given by Frank Howland and Frank Smith, recent C. E. graduates. The Civil Engineers are a familiar sight surveying the campus each semester.

Electrical Engineers

The Nevada Branch of the American Institute of Electrical Engineers was founded in 1923 and has met with a good measure of success on this campus. Regular meetings are held monthly with Guy Patterson presiding. By lowering the bars of admission to freshmen and sophomores this formerly upperclass group has swelled its numbers until comparable to other engineering societies on the hill. Members profit considerably and are given added incentive by lectures from the representatives of such companies as General Electric and Westinghouse. The group has attempted to maintain student contact with the practical electrical world as evidenced by inspection trips to such projects as Boca Dam. Of benefit to the whole University is the public address system built largely through the efforts of the "double E." Profitable to the group were the lectures by James Shaver and General Electric's Illumination Engineer Gianini. As guests of the State Highway Department members were given a luncheon and treated to a film on highway safety. Most interesting and stupifying exhibits to be seen on Engineers' Day are the work of the Electrical Engineers.

Mechanical Engineers

Formerly an independent society, reorganization three years ago resulted in acceptance of this group into the American Society of Mechanical Engineers as a student branch. In President Eugene Rollins' cabinet as secretary is Nevada's one woman engineer, Genevieve Wines. Purpose of the group is development of student interest and advancement of theory and practice in Mechanical Engineering. As in most engineering societies, meetings are held primarily to give members opportunity to hear and meet practicing engineers. Made annually is their trek to the convention of student affiliates of the S. S. M. E., held this year at Los Angeles. Special reports were presented to the group this year by the national secretary of their parent society. In a lighter theme was an interesting and amusing lecture on "Locks and Locksmiths." Regular feature of meetings is the reading of excerpts from the Mechanical Journal followed by general discussion. An exception to this routine activity was an inspection trip to Mare Island and the California & Hawaiian Sugar Refinery at Crockett, California.

Chem Club

Organized for the purpose of promoting a greater interest in the science of chemistry is the Chem Club. Selective in its nature, only those students showing special ability in the field of chemistry are eligible for membership. New associates with the Chemistry Club are elected on the basis of a competitive examination, testing the aptitude of the student in the realm of chemistry. Selected topics in its field are presented by students and members of the faculty of the Department of Chemistry. First semester found Chem Clubbers enjoying a picnic on the shores of Lake Tahoe and a banquet at the Colombo

Cafe honoring newly-elected members. Doctor George W. Sears, head of the department, gave a talk entitled "The Story of the Atom." Chief guest speaker was J. C. Koster of the United States Bureau of Mines, who presented a paper on "Electrolytic Manganese" at the meeting of the Sacramento section of the American Chemical Society held in Reno. The second semester prospective chemists also journeyed to the State Analytical Laboratory in Reno to study methods used by their chemists.

Math Club

Comparatively young among the many campus organizations is the Math Club. Object of the organization is to present questions of interest to students majoring in mathematics. Membership in the society consists of math majors and minors and those intrigued by the brain-twisting puzzles of higher calculations. Meetings, held the second Thursday of every month, are devoted to the discussion by students and faculty of notable discoveries and interesting sidelights in figure juggling. Ben Morehouse during the year replaced Margaret Jensen as president when the latter resigned. Secretary-treasurer was Martha Ann Holcomb. Head of the department, Dr. Frederick Wood, acted as advisor. Feature of the club's year is the annual picnic, held at Lake Tahoe. Contrary to campus opinion these picnics are not an outing of campus genii who spend their time pondering involved problems while lying in the sand, but are instead lapses in the worries of college. Most meetings are devoted to short historical talks on famous mathematicians, illustrated by pictures. Outstanding meeting of the year was a program conducted by Phi Kappa Phiier Ben Morehouse based on a version of "Professor Quiz" of radio fame.

Fine Arts

Fine Arts represents the little appreciated efforts of a few women to incite on the University of Nevada campus an interest in art. Assembling all available works in oil and charcoal and in camera studies they introduce yearly an exhibit in the library seminar. Among the well-known artists' works represented early in the year were Rico Lebrun's "Anna" and Raphael Soyer's "The Flower Vendor." Later a selection of various lithographs from the Federal Art project was shown. Particularly interesting were the pictures "Solitude" by Paul Tyler, "Negro" by Nicholas Paneis, "Winging South" by Glen Stirling, and "Night Before November the Third" by Katheryn Uhl. Most of the exhibits were taken from the works of contemporary artists. Pictures taken by the University of Nevada Camera Club of such scenes as the University campus and buildings, Lake Tahoe, California natural life, architecture and animals were received with considerable enthusiasm. Motion pictures of skiing and ice skating were also shown. Besides exhibits, the group holds regular meetings and its annual formal tea, this time in honor of Marcus Maurillo from Stewart, who filled out the display with oil paintings of California.

Home Ec Club

Faculty of the Department of Home Economics and all students electing one or more courses in that department may be members of the association. An organization established to bring Home Ec. people together outside the classroom in both a social and intellectual way, it is slowly regaining some of its lost prestige on the campus. Several years ago a membership in this club was coveted by ever co-ed interested in progressive activity. In an endeavor to prove their prowess to doubtful males, Junior members prepared and served a formal dinner to gentlemen friends during the fall semester—no ill effects were reported. Other events on social calendar included the annual card party given for the purpose of raising funds to send delegates to Home Ec. convention, and a radio dance, held in department rooms. Topics of lectures included on programs for the monthly meetings were: "Japanese Flower Arrangements," "Teaching in War-Torn China," and "Work of the United States Farm Bureau." Late in April, Senior members were honored at a banquet at the Silver Grill. Officers were announced for the coming year and the Seniors presented their customary farewell skit.

Sagers

An underclassmen's pep organization which has upheld their share of the work this year. Though they receive very little praise for their efforts, the school would be hard-pressed to find any group to substitute for them. It is their job to clean up after socials, football games, Homecoming Day bonfire, and numerous other functions, as well as to help arrange for these under the supervision of the Blue Key, their big-brother organization. After serving in this capacity for two or more years they may receive a bid to Blue Key. During past year they recovered rally bell from C. O. P., aided in unsuccessful drive for new student union building, put up Homecoming bonfire, acted as guides to visiting basketball teams, distributed advertising handbills, decorated and cleaned up before and after Mackay celebration in gym. Twice defeated Blue Keyers in games of touch tackle during half-time at football games. Due to a revision of their constitution, election of new members to the organization is based upon the number of members and pledges in the respective fraternal groups. The list of tryees is brought up at a general meeting of the group and new members are elected on the basis of one member in the Sagers for each ten members.

Sundowners

Nearby farmers put an extra lock on their chicken coops, the campus held its breath, but the annual Chicken Chase proved to be a milder affair than last year's episode when the society took the field late in the spring semester. The organization was founded in October, 1921, and has served in the capacity of a good fellowship society since its inception. As there are no special requirements for membership, the members are chosen from men students at large, with special efforts being made to include members of different social groups. After leading the usual apparently non-existent existence all year, the Sundowners suddenly decided to hold an election. A brief meeting in the A. S. U. N. saw Duncan Dorsey replace Sam Basta as president, and approximately twenty nominees for membership unanimously elected. About half the new members refused bids, stating initiation price was too much to pay for one or two meetings a year. Remainder of neophytes donned the usual tramp garbs, took over the campus, provided the annual contest on the lawn below the tram. Professor Silas Feemster kept a long tradition of the group alive by shooting the starting gun.

Cercle Francais and Deutsches Verein

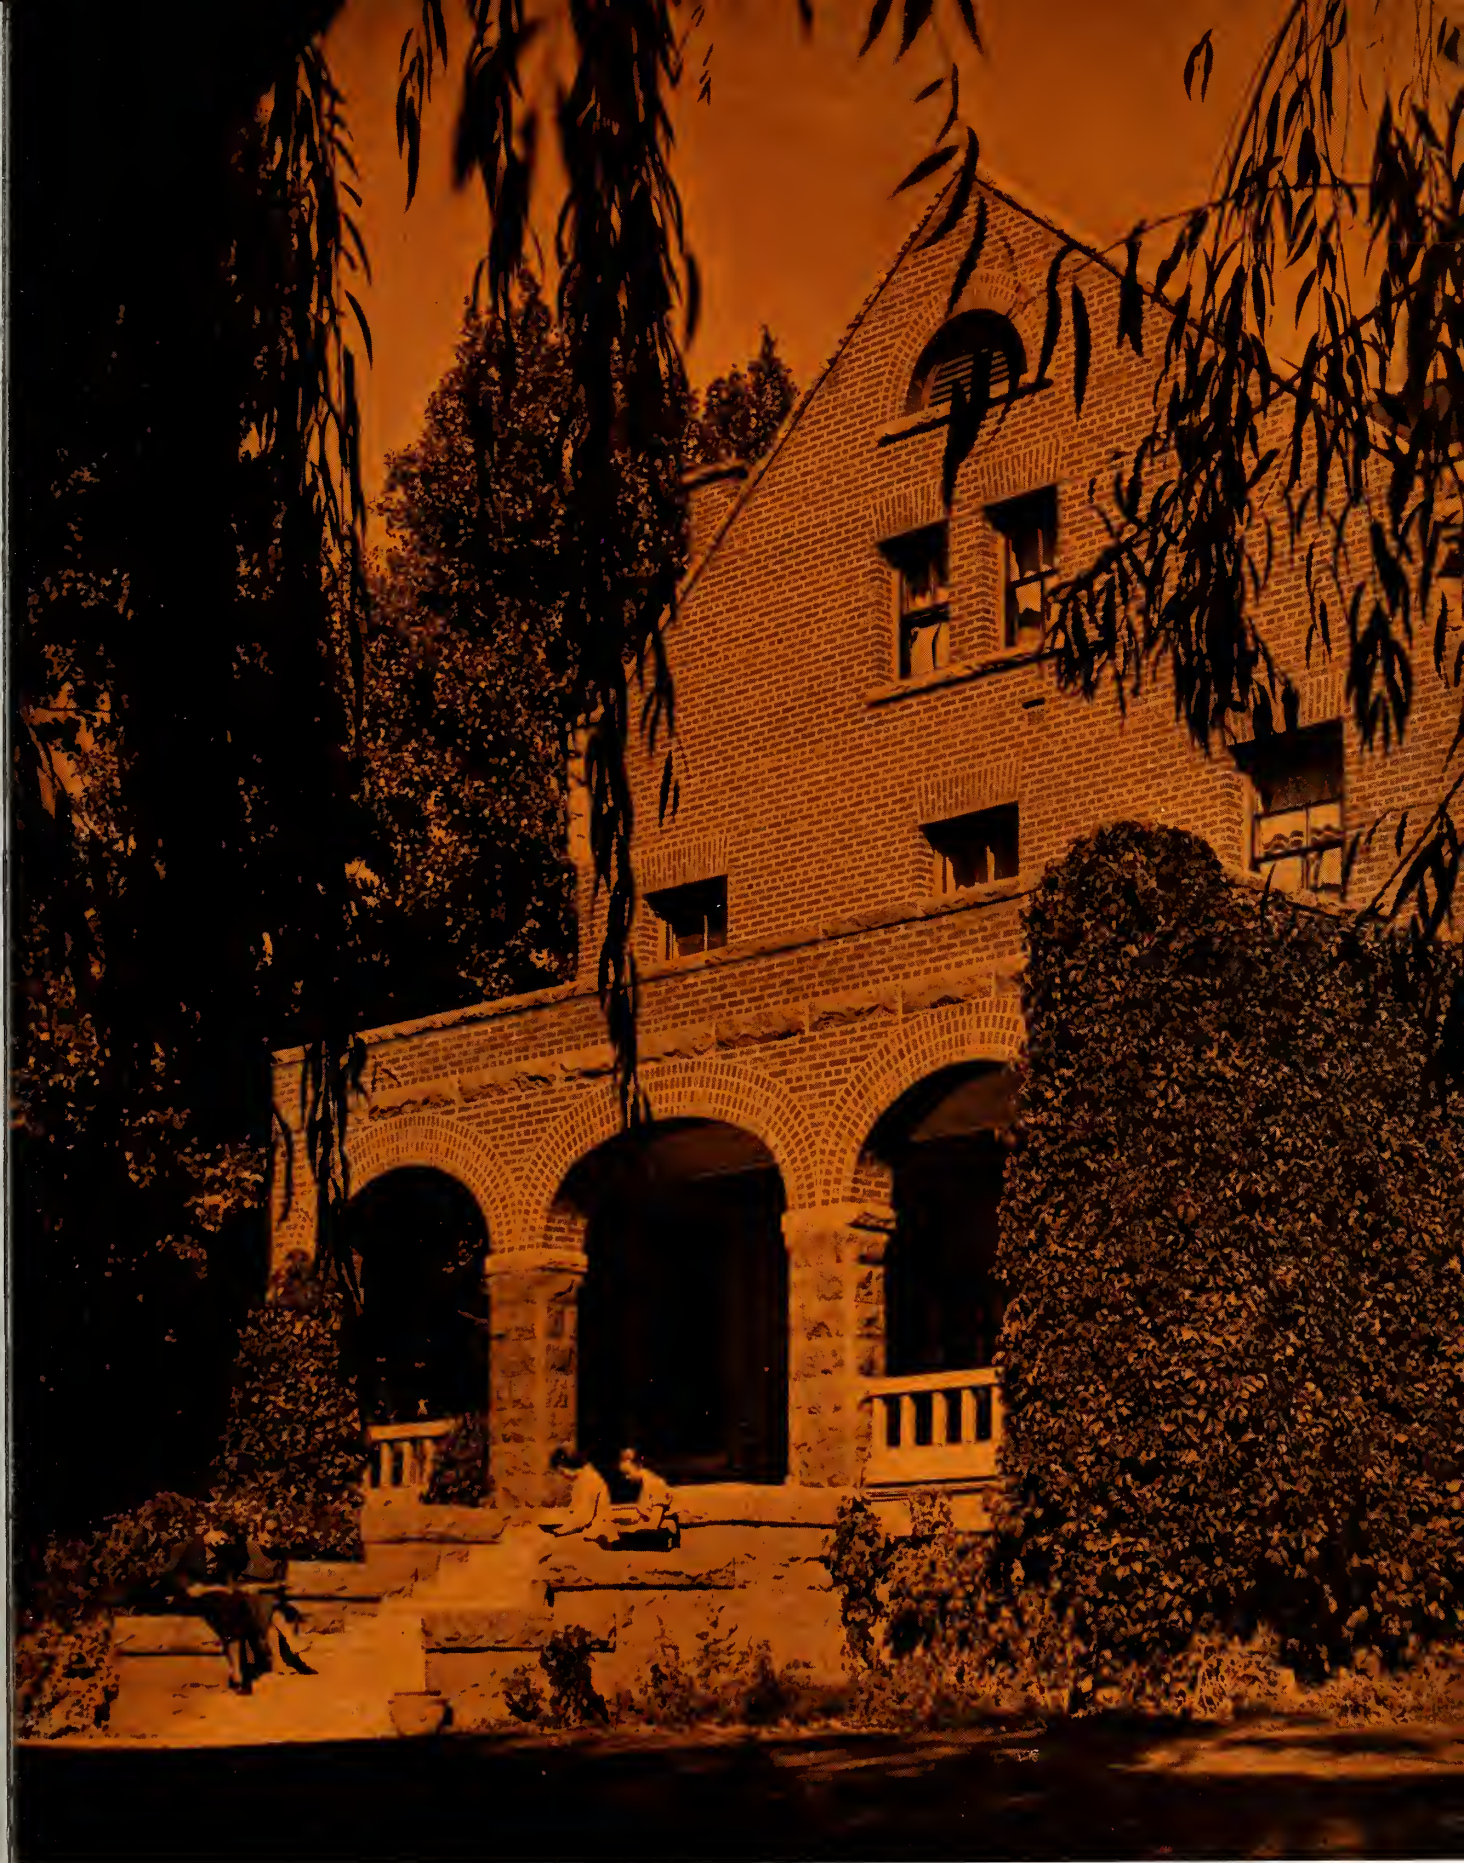

The Cercle Francais was organized in 1935 for the purpose of offering opportunity to students of French to practice conversation. The club provides entertainment, arranges for lectures based on French cultural topics, and has obtained and presented French moving picture films. These programs are not restricted in attendance, for all University students and townspeople are invited. Many of the activities are presented in conjunction with the "Union Francaise," an organization of French people of Reno and vicinity. The two groups this year presented the visiting French consul-general, Yves Meric de Bellefon, with colored photographs of Reno and the immediate surroundings. The Deutsches Verein, an organization of students of the German language, is similar to the Cercle Francais in purpose and the administration of its program. Although the German club was organized two years later than the Cercle Francais, it has grown rapidly and now includes most of the advanced German students. Madam Adrienne Tuttle, president of the Cercle Francais; Eugene Jahn, president of the Deutsches Verein, and Professor B. F. Chappelle, faculty advisor, have exercised executive control for the past year.

First national fraternity on Nevada's campus—has consistently maintained a high rating. Goes in for quality and not so much for quantity in pledges, so they claim. Own smallest mortgage of any mortgaged frat house—also five lots on future Fraternity Row on University Terrace. At present one of worst looking houses but best sleeping quarters. For first time in several years stood first in scholarship among fraternities at close of fall semester. Have a strong hold on Reno crop where rushing is concerned. Either winners or runners-up on basketball and track. Become violent at mention of campus politics; nevertheless, hold their share of honors: Presidency of Nu Eta Epsilon, Editorship of Artemisia, cup for skit in Wolves' Frolic, cup for Homecoming house decorations, and a toe hold on dramatics. Professors William I. Smythe and Clyde Souter are faculty of the group.

Proud that it is the oldest national fraternity in the United States. First local fraternity to be established and second to go national. Three members were represented on the first string of the varsity basketball team and others were outstanding in football. Shattered hallowed tradition of near-bottom academic rank by turning out a Rhodes scholar. Members headed Blue Key, Press Club, Delta Delta Epsilon, Masque and Dagger, Ski Club, and 'Brush Business Staff. F. L. Bixby is prominent faculty member.

Is the third oldest house on the "Hill." Although this group appears to be inconspicuous, it works quietly and unceasingly and has given the campus several outstanding leaders. Always a high ranking contender for intra-mural baseball cup. Well represented in intramural basketball and managing to come out on top with the handball singles crown. Represented in Phi Kappa Phi and All-Conference football team. Paul A. Harwood, former Rhodes Scholar, and Jay A. Carpenter, are included in faculty membership.

Proudly claim the newest and most spacious fraternity house on the "Hill." Seems destined to be permanent address of Kinnear intramural sports trophy and, from the appearance of their trophy case, a few others, too. Took the basketball cup away from Sigma Nu. Presidencies of Aggie Club, Sun-Downers and Civil Engineers were coveted positions held by Taus this year, as were Junior Class and Artemisia business managerships. Alumni members of the faculty include Dean R. C. Thompson and Chester M. Scranton.

Happy-go-lucky house of the campus—strong in athletics, with a decided corner in football. Block N and Sundowners meetings look like Sigma Phi reunions. Most of the membership gleaned from Southern California. Have had two A. S. U. N. presidents within last few years—held presidency of Block N this year and chairmanship of Engineers' Brawl and Mackay Day Committees. Won Mackay Day Song Cup and are known for their originality in house decorations, float, and skit for Homecoming. Faculty alumni are John Gottardi and Dean F. H. Sibley.

Regaining its strength and growing in membership. Student body president was chosen from the fraternity for the first time in history. Volleyball and handball teams claimed the cups by topping all other fraternities in these intramural tournaments and put them right up there in Kinnear Trophy standings. Always high in scholarship, this group usually runs a close second on fraternity lists. Members successfully presided over Associated Engineers, Math Club, Omega Mu Iota, and Band Club meetings. Faculty members include: V. P. Gianella, Robert Stewart, P. A. Lehenbauer and V. E. Scott.

One of the youngest fraternities on campus has advanced rapidly in membership and prominence—are proud of the fact that they are only fraternity able to burn its mortgage with a clear conscience. Also owners three lots on University Terrace and plans for a new house. Have consistently been highest fraternity on the grade list but fumbled during fall semester. Have a corner on Ely and Vegas boys. Give other houses dangerous competition in baseball, track and all other major sports. Members hold such offices as Presidencies of Campus Players, Coffin and Keys, Inter-Fraternity Council, and Sagers; Managership of Senior Class and Yell Leader. Alumni organization distinctive in that it is composed mostly of younger men. Clark Amens' and J. E. Martie comprise their faculty membership.

Enjoys advantage of not having to rush men for membership. Residence in dormitory is not compulsory but, because of its distinct advantage in location, capacity numbers are accommodated. Has tended to become more organized in past few years. Close contender for the scholarship cup and has succeeded in capturing it several times. Members active in various groups and outstanding in publications work. Several held positions of high esteem on the campus such as Homecoming Day Committee Chairman and Sophomore Class Manager.

Interfraternity Council

Nearly three hundred men students at Nevada belong to Social Fraternities. This gives special import to the Interfraternity Council, whose job it is to coordinate member organizations, prevent their reciprocal throat-cutting. Each group has one delegate to the council. The Dean of Men acts as Advisor, is entitled to vote whenever any three disgruntled delegates protest a decision. Biggest job of the body is to control "rushing." It has set pledging regulations reinforced with fines that are rarely levied. The first few days of most men entering Nevada are full indeed. They are fed, flattered, dined and dated until a fraternity is chosen. Until initiated they submit to instruction and a period of work. Following precedent an annual Bean Feed was held last fall to help the "houses" get acquainted, forget their animosities developed during "rushing." Held in the bleachers, the function featured talks, awarding intramural athletic trophies, and singing. Only time when the public can hear this recital is during the Mackay Day luncheon when fraternity song teams vie for prizes, an impression on the lunchers.

Pan Hellenic Council

*P*an-Hellenic Council is the governing body of the six national sororities on the campus. Its membership is composed of two delegates from each "house." One of the duties of the group is to draw up and enforce all rules pertaining to rushing and pledging, and, as a member of the national organization of similar councils, has the authority to penalize any sorority that breaks the regulations. "Bids" from sororities to "rushees" are extended through a lawyer who was this year Mrs. A. E. Hill and her assistant, Mrs. Robert Griffin. As the promotion of high scholarship is one of the major aims of the council, it presents a silver cup each semester to the sorority attaining the highest scholarship rating. The award was garnered by Delta Delta Delta during the fall semester and by Kappa Alpha Theta during the spring half. To retain permanent possession of this trophy sororities must win it for three consecutive semesters. To date no group has ever won anything but its temporary ownership. Feature of the group is its presidency, which is not elective but goes to the delegate of a different sorority each year.

Third national sorority to be established on this campus. Has been fairly consistent in its membership—now fourth in this respect. Only sorority that makes no boast of newly decorated rooms and elaborate building plans. Membership made up of women of general ability, due probably to the fact that no liens are exercised in any one part of the state where rushing is concerned. Latest honors: A. W. Last major sorority to be established at Nevada now has largest membership. Parries thrust of the Pi Phis with the fact that Theta was the first Greek-letter society of women organized with principles and methods akin to those of men's fraternities. Has great social asset in its large newly decorated living room—members referred to as "good sports." Controlling interest in Fallon is exercised during rushing season. Assets consist of the Honorary Majorship, a consistently-won Mackay song cup, scholarship cup for fall semester, Homecoming cup for best decorated sorority house, tennis trophy, and cup for best skit at Tri-Delt She-Jinx. Boasts as alumnae, daughters of prominent state officials, and Mae Simas and Eva Adams as members of the faculty.

Association existed long before social sororities and still serves a purpose among the out-of-town women who pledge a sorority during their Freshman year, as well as all other out-of-town girls must remain at the Hall as "Maizes" for two full semesters before becoming residents of their respective houses. Such an arrangement leaves them under the direct supervision of the Dean of Women, thus contributing to the adoption of proper sleeping habits due to stringency of rules. Outstanding accomplishments within this group include: Scholarship plaque for spring semester, women's editorship of the 'Brush, presidency of Chi Delta Phi and Cap and Scroll.

Although next to the smallest sorority on this campus, its rapidly growing group is a scholarly one and has become more active these past two semesters than it has been for several years. Because it has no house at present it holds meetings at the home of Mrs. Alice B. Marsh—is distinctive in that it is the only sorority with a faculty advisor instead of a housemother. Alpha Delta Theta

National Sorority

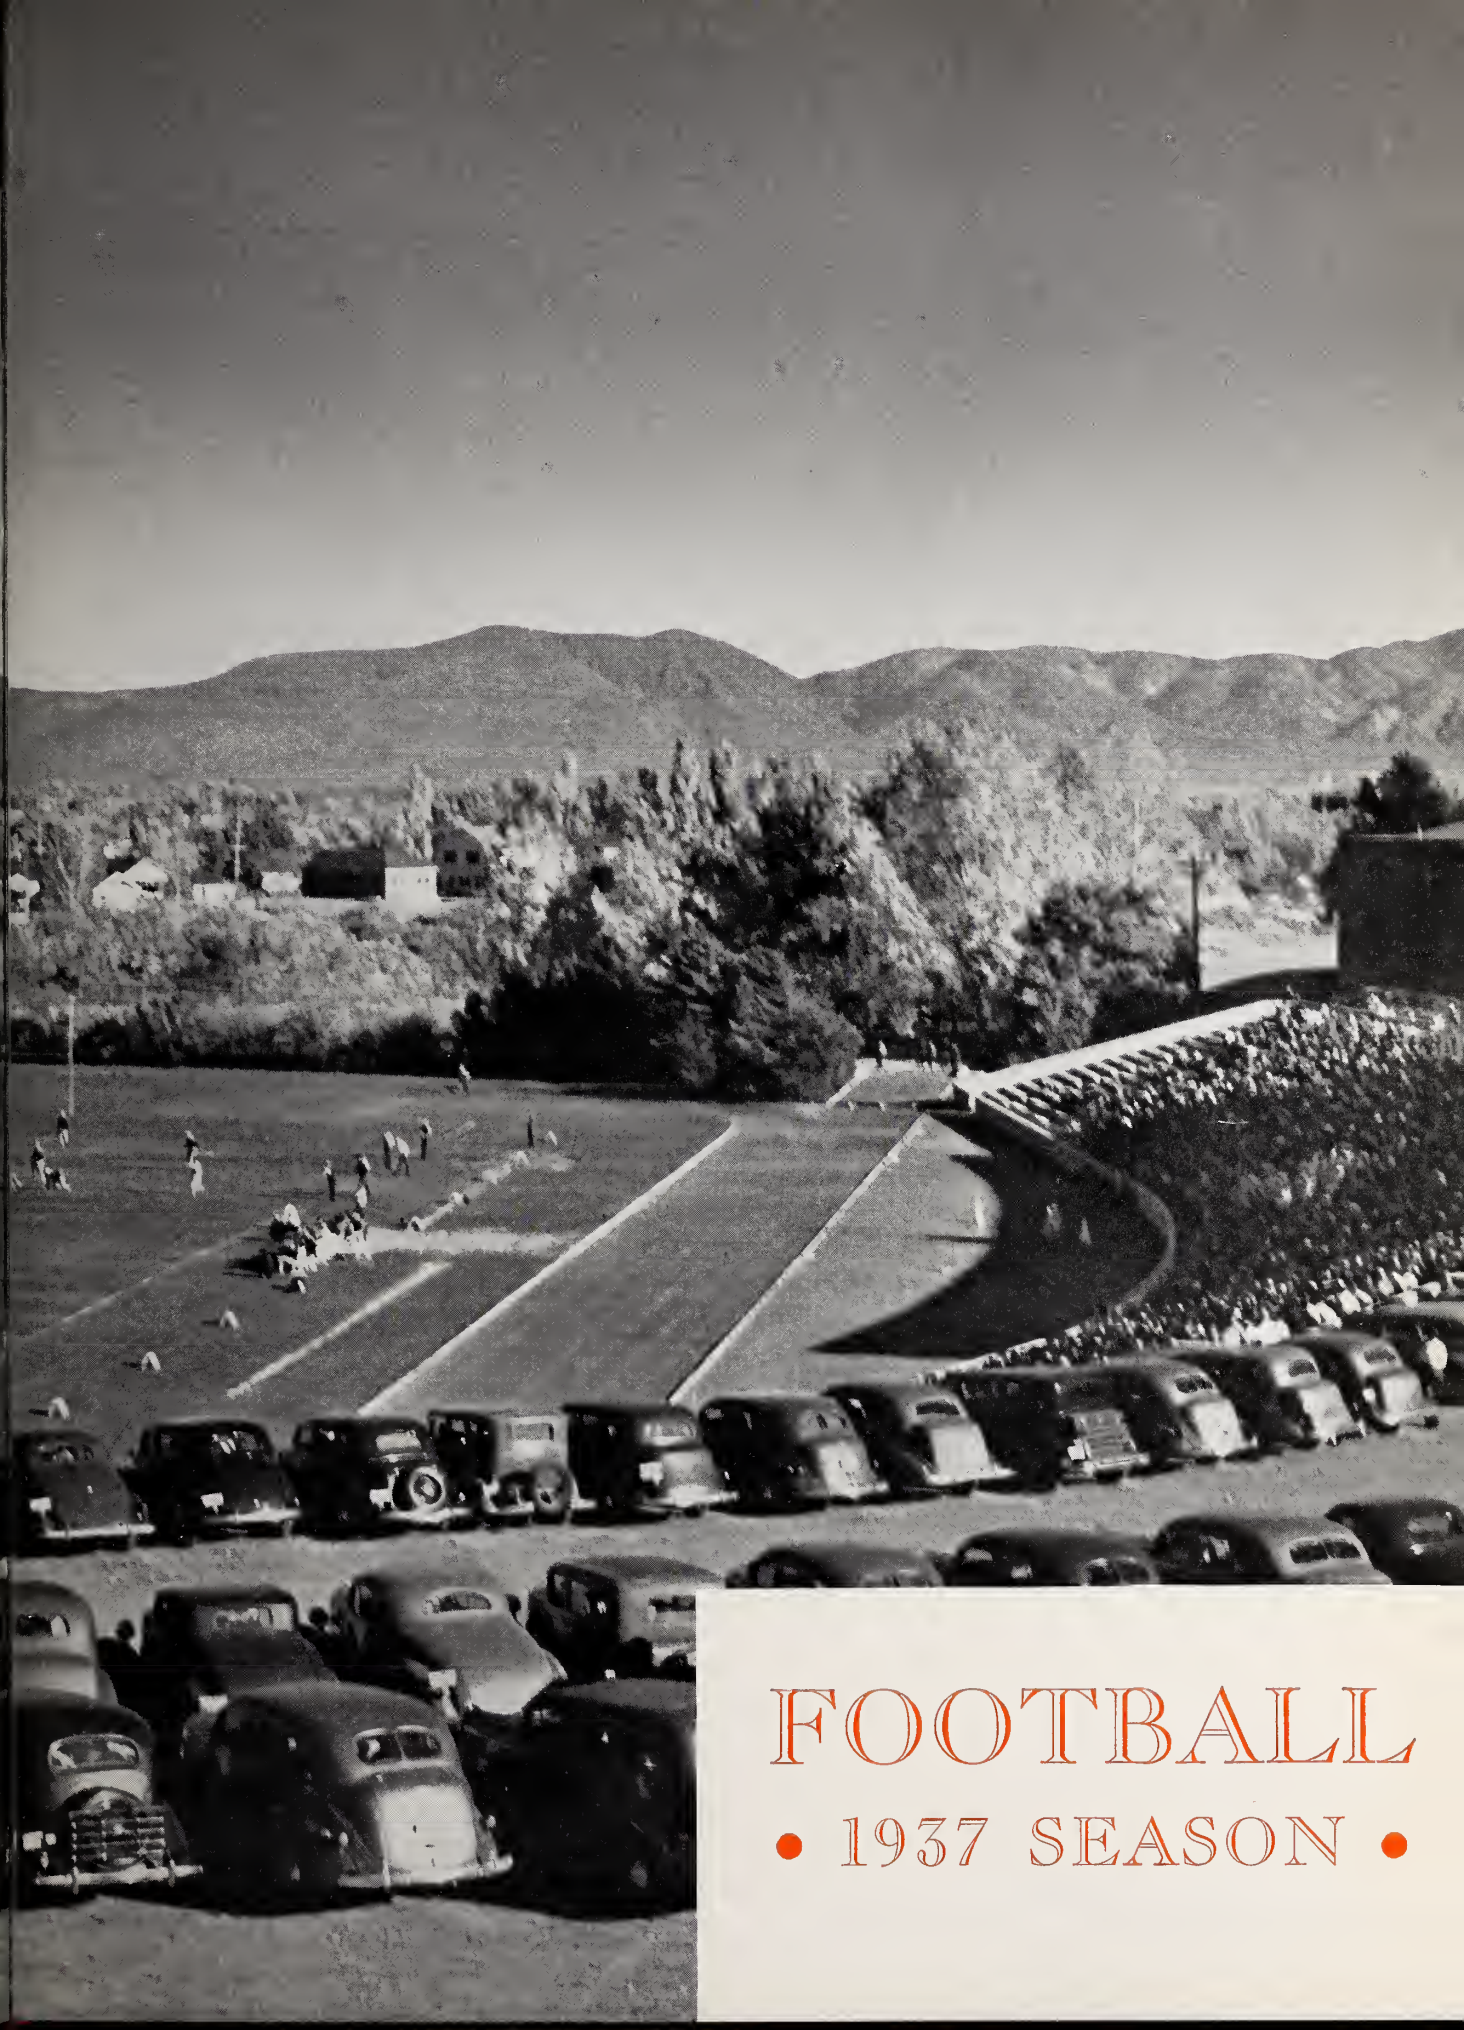

Founded at Transylvania College in fall of 1919. Chi chapter established at Nevada in 1932 from the local, Beta Delta. Youngest sorority on campus as well as nationally—had difficulty in holding its charter due to its smallness and comparative inactivity. Pan-Hellenic Council has suggested various ways in which to improve their position, which is still precarious. Rooms in Artemisia Hall in which to hold meetings take the place of a house. Mary Boczkiewicz represents the group in Senate.

FOOTBALL

• 1937 SEASON •

Coach Doug Dashiell

Doug Dashiell

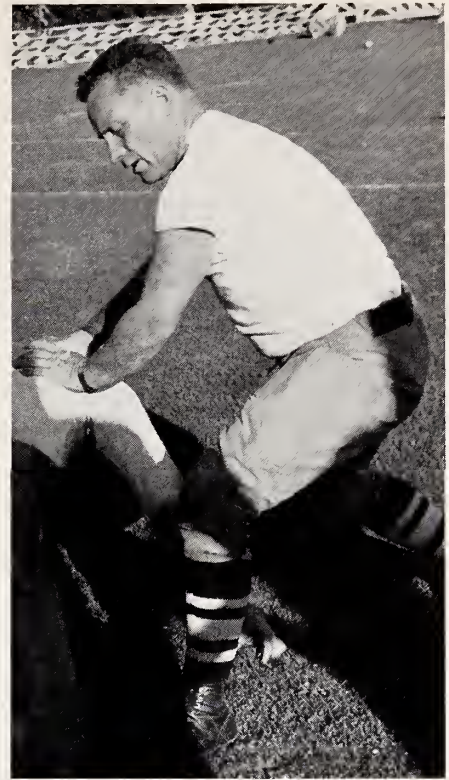

Possessing a high code of ethics, a slightly superstitious nature, and the attributes of a competent football coach, Douglas Dean Dashiell holds the position of head football coach at the University of Nevada. Since his graduation from Southwestern University in 1928, the square-jawed Texan has tutored the football teams of three different institutions. While coach of Temple Junior College, Texas, Dashiell's gridiron men won a conference championship, tied for first place the second year, took second place in the conference during the third season. In 1931 Dashiell became a member of the Las Vegas High School staff and, in addition to coaching the football team, was an instructor in public speaking and debate, and served as vice-principal of the school. His outstanding work in public speaking and dramatics earned him the office of president of the Nevada Forensic League in 1935. Sport writers often referred to Coach Dashiell as "The Champmaker from the South" after the Las Vegas teams won four consecutive state football titles in five years. Doug's record at Las Vegas High School in both athletics and teaching were deciding factors in making him a candidate for the position of head coach at the University of Nevada. On December 13, 1935, the Board of Regents confirmed President Walter E. Clark's recommendation of Dashiell for coach, and thus began the era of a new coaching regime. Critics recognize Dashiell's teams for their fighting sportsmanship, clean playing and observance of training rules. Under Dashiell the Wolves won four out of eight contests in 1936; most notable was the 7-6 victory over the University of Idaho. In 1937 Dashiell, plagued by Nevada's proverbial bad luck, lost at one time or another all of his first string with injuries, still managed to get two victories of an eight-game series.

Chet Scranton

Utility man, by his own definition, Chet is rightly an all-round professor. Assistant football coach in the fall and tennis coach in the spring, along with many P. E. courses, his duties are numerous and unrelated. A Nevada graduate, Chet has an impressive record. Captain of the '23 Nevada football team that held California's "Wonder Team" to a scoreless tie, basketball and track star, Chet, upon graduation, assumed the duties of head coach at Sparks High School for three years. He then came back to the University, obtained his master's degree, and commenced teaching in the P. E. department. Since then he has been assistant coach to "Buck Shaw" and George Philbrook. Under Brick Mitchell he started handling the freshman teams, until this year when, because of pressing work, he turned the job over to Jim Coleman. Now he is assistant and backfield coach under football mentor Doug Dashiell.

Noel Bennett tumbles when tackled by Wyoming men; Pepan (W.) recovers.

University of Wyoming

From out of the hills of Laramie came the Wyoming Cowboys to meet Coach Dashiell's newly-built Wolf Pack, who sent the invaders home defeated, 9 to 7. King Football reigned supreme on Mackay field for the season's opener as the largest crowd in Nevada history saw the Wolves edge out the visiting Northerners. Late in the first quarter Bill Grubbs, Nevada fullback, carried the ball over the goal for the first score of the game. Wyoming struck back immediately, costly fumbles found the Nevadans at the short end of a 7-6 score. With minutes to play, Nevada was deep into Wyoming territory when Pat Eaton's kick gave Nevada three points to win.

John Sala, right end.

St. Mary's

It was a sad day for over 400 Nevada rooters that turned from Kezar stadium in San Francisco after seeing the St. Mary's Gaels down the Nevada Wolf Pack, 42-0. The Californians played with fanatical intensity and, when the sixty minutes were over, a battered and crippled Wolf Pack left Kezar stadium after taking the worst beating of the season. Nevada threatened late in the third stanza when a long run brought Ray McMichael within two yards of the quested goal. In the next play a penalty set the ball back 15 yards and the Galloping Gaels again dominated the field. The cripple list reached a new high, which may account for the later Pack defeats.

Neal Campbell, end.

Leonard Carpenter, right half.

James Twombly, fullback.

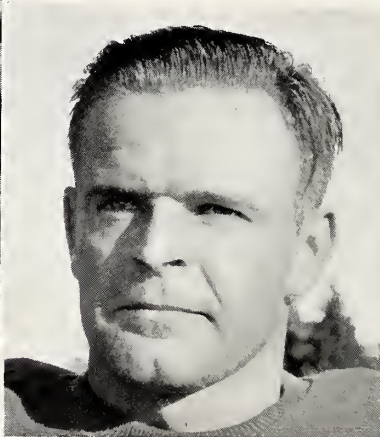

Kenny Powell carries ball while Wesefall and Little (Cal. Aggies) watch helplessly.

California Aggies

A 12-0 setback at the hands of the Cal Aggies blasted Nevada's hopes of copping the Far Western Conference crown. The Wolves took the field a heavy favorite due to their outstanding performance against College of Pacific just a week before. When the winter sun was setting the squad left the cleat-scarred turf of Mackay field in fourth place for the conference title. Injuries from the College of Pacific contest plus a general moral breakdown added to the troubles of the Pack. Cal Aggies' Fullback Serpa was everything advance press notices had said him to be. Nevada, even with McKinnon and Grubbs outstanding, was slow, constantly fumbling.

Kenneth Powell, halfback.

Charles Whitham, guard.

College of Pacific on Nevada goal-line, Bill Grubbs and Dick Taylor ready to tackle.

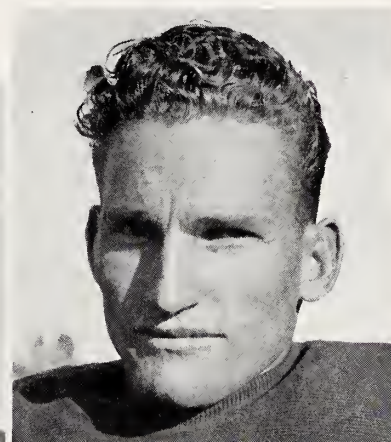

College of Pacific

For sixty minutes six thousand fans were tense as the Nevada Wolves fought the College of Pacific Bengals. When the end came the Californians were victorious, 7-3. The intangible Homecoming spirit, during the first half enabled them to stay even. Nevada's lone score came after a thrilling 94-yard run by Ray McMichael in the opening kickoff of the second half. McMichael took the ball on his own three-yard line, evaded the onrushing opponents, with the exception of Bengal Hedges, who nailed the Nevadan three yards from the goal. Three attempts to penetrate the C. O. P. line failed and Twombly and Eaton went in, kicked for three points in the final down.

Noel Bennett, quarterback

Nevada stops a determined Chico drive at the goal-line.

Chico

Rising to superb heights after a terrific physical beating by St. Mary's, the crippled Wolves rang up their second victory of the '37 season—a 27-to-0 trouncing of the Chico Wildcats. For the first time the famed Nevada razzle-dazzle clicked perfectly to give Nevada four touchdowns. In the third quarter, the Wolves duplicated the last year's performance of completing the most spectacular play on the Pacific Coast by executing their play twenty-five perfectly. Centered from the 40-yard line, the ball was received by Tailback Robb who passed to Basta. Basta then lateralled to Carpenter, who gave the ball to Powell, who then lateralled to McIntyre for the score.

Harold Foremaster, guard.

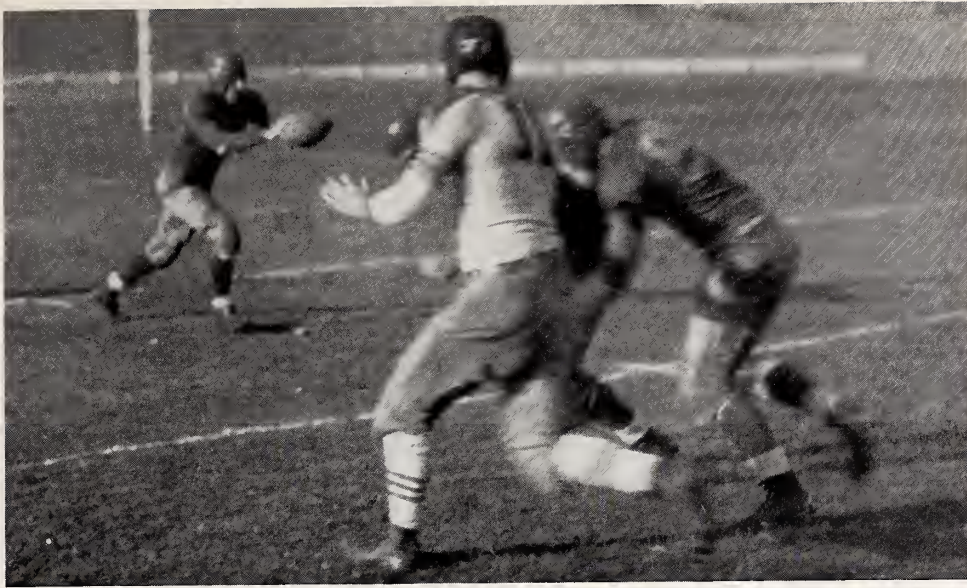

Delbert Stewart, tackle.

Steve Podesta, guard.

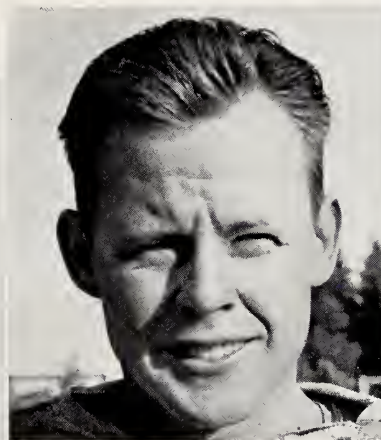

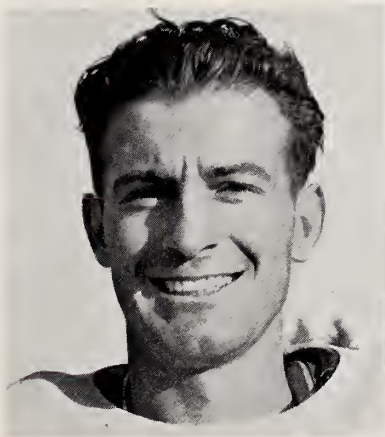

Bennett kicks for Nevada after a sustained Fresno drive for a touchdown.

Fresno State College

Bradshaw returns, was the cry when the famed Nevada athlete led his Fresno Bulldogs to Reno. Nevada proved to be no obstacle. When the final gun sounded, Fresno had 42, Nevada 8. Displaying a variety of baffling reverses featuring the "Rabbit's" proteges in the ball-packing role, the Bulldogs ran wild over the bewildered Wolves. Scoring at the third quarter, Nevada netted its eight points. The touchdown was the result of a long pass from Bennett to Sala, who eluded two tacklers to score. Sala and McKinnon, ends, trapped the Fresno ball-carrier behind his goal to score a safety after Bennett had booted a beautiful "coffin-corner" kick out on the one-foot line.

Santa Barbara State College

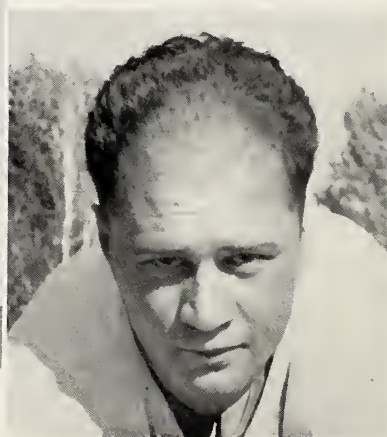

Whether or not playing at night was a boon to the Nevada players is not a point, but the Wolves did turn in an outstanding game against the highly-touted Santa Barbara State Gauchos, losing, 20 to 7, despite game statistics being heavily in favor of Nevada. Taking to the field in full strength for the first time since the beginning of the season, the Wolves ran the Gauchos to their hardest win. Time and time again the Nevada team was in the shadows of Santa Barbara's goal only to have their scoring chance muffled by a bad break. Grubbs, hulking Wolf line-smasher, crashed his way to Nevada's only official score of the game.

Willamette University

Two wins, six defeats. Conference rating, fourth. That was the final standing of the Wolf Pack after terminating the erratic 1937 football season with a 41-7 defeat by Willamette University from Salem, Oregon. The visitors from the North never once made a sustained drive. They didn't have to, because big Dick Weisberger had a right hand that was good for passing and the Wolf defense was on a holiday during Thanksgiving. Six times the Bearcats crossed the Nevada line, once on a recovered fumble of a punt, and the other five on passes. Poor defense again hampered the Pack's chances for victory. Nevada's lone touchdown was made as a result of the only sustained drive during the entire game.

Coach Jim Coleman

Frost Football

With a wealth of material made up of high school stars from all over California and Nevada with which to work, Coach Jim Coleman developed one of the best freshman football teams in the history of Nevada. Instead of playing the usual role of "cannon fodder" in scrimmage for the varsity, they often turned the tables, gave the Pack as much trouble as some scheduled opponents. Completing a schedule of five contests and led by John Polish, star backfield performer, the yearlings steam-rolled their way over four opponents, suffered but one loss—a 6-to-0 decision dropped to Placer Junior College. Highlight of the season for the Cub gridders was the trip to Los Angeles, where, playing at night under the lights for the first time, they dumped the highly-touted Compton J. C., 21 to 13, on a fog-covered field. The trip was the longest ever taken by a freshman football team, longer this year than any taken by the varsity. Also whipped by the Frosh were: Placer Junior College, 19 to 6; Menlo Junior College, 27 to 12, and Utah Branch Agricultural College, 38 to 6. For having played one hundred minutes of football, passing eleven hours of academic work, fourteen men were awarded '41 sweaters at the end of the season. Thirteen others failed to meet scholastic requirements and were given only numerals.

Managers: Fisler, Ronzone, Conaway, Aackerman, Quilici

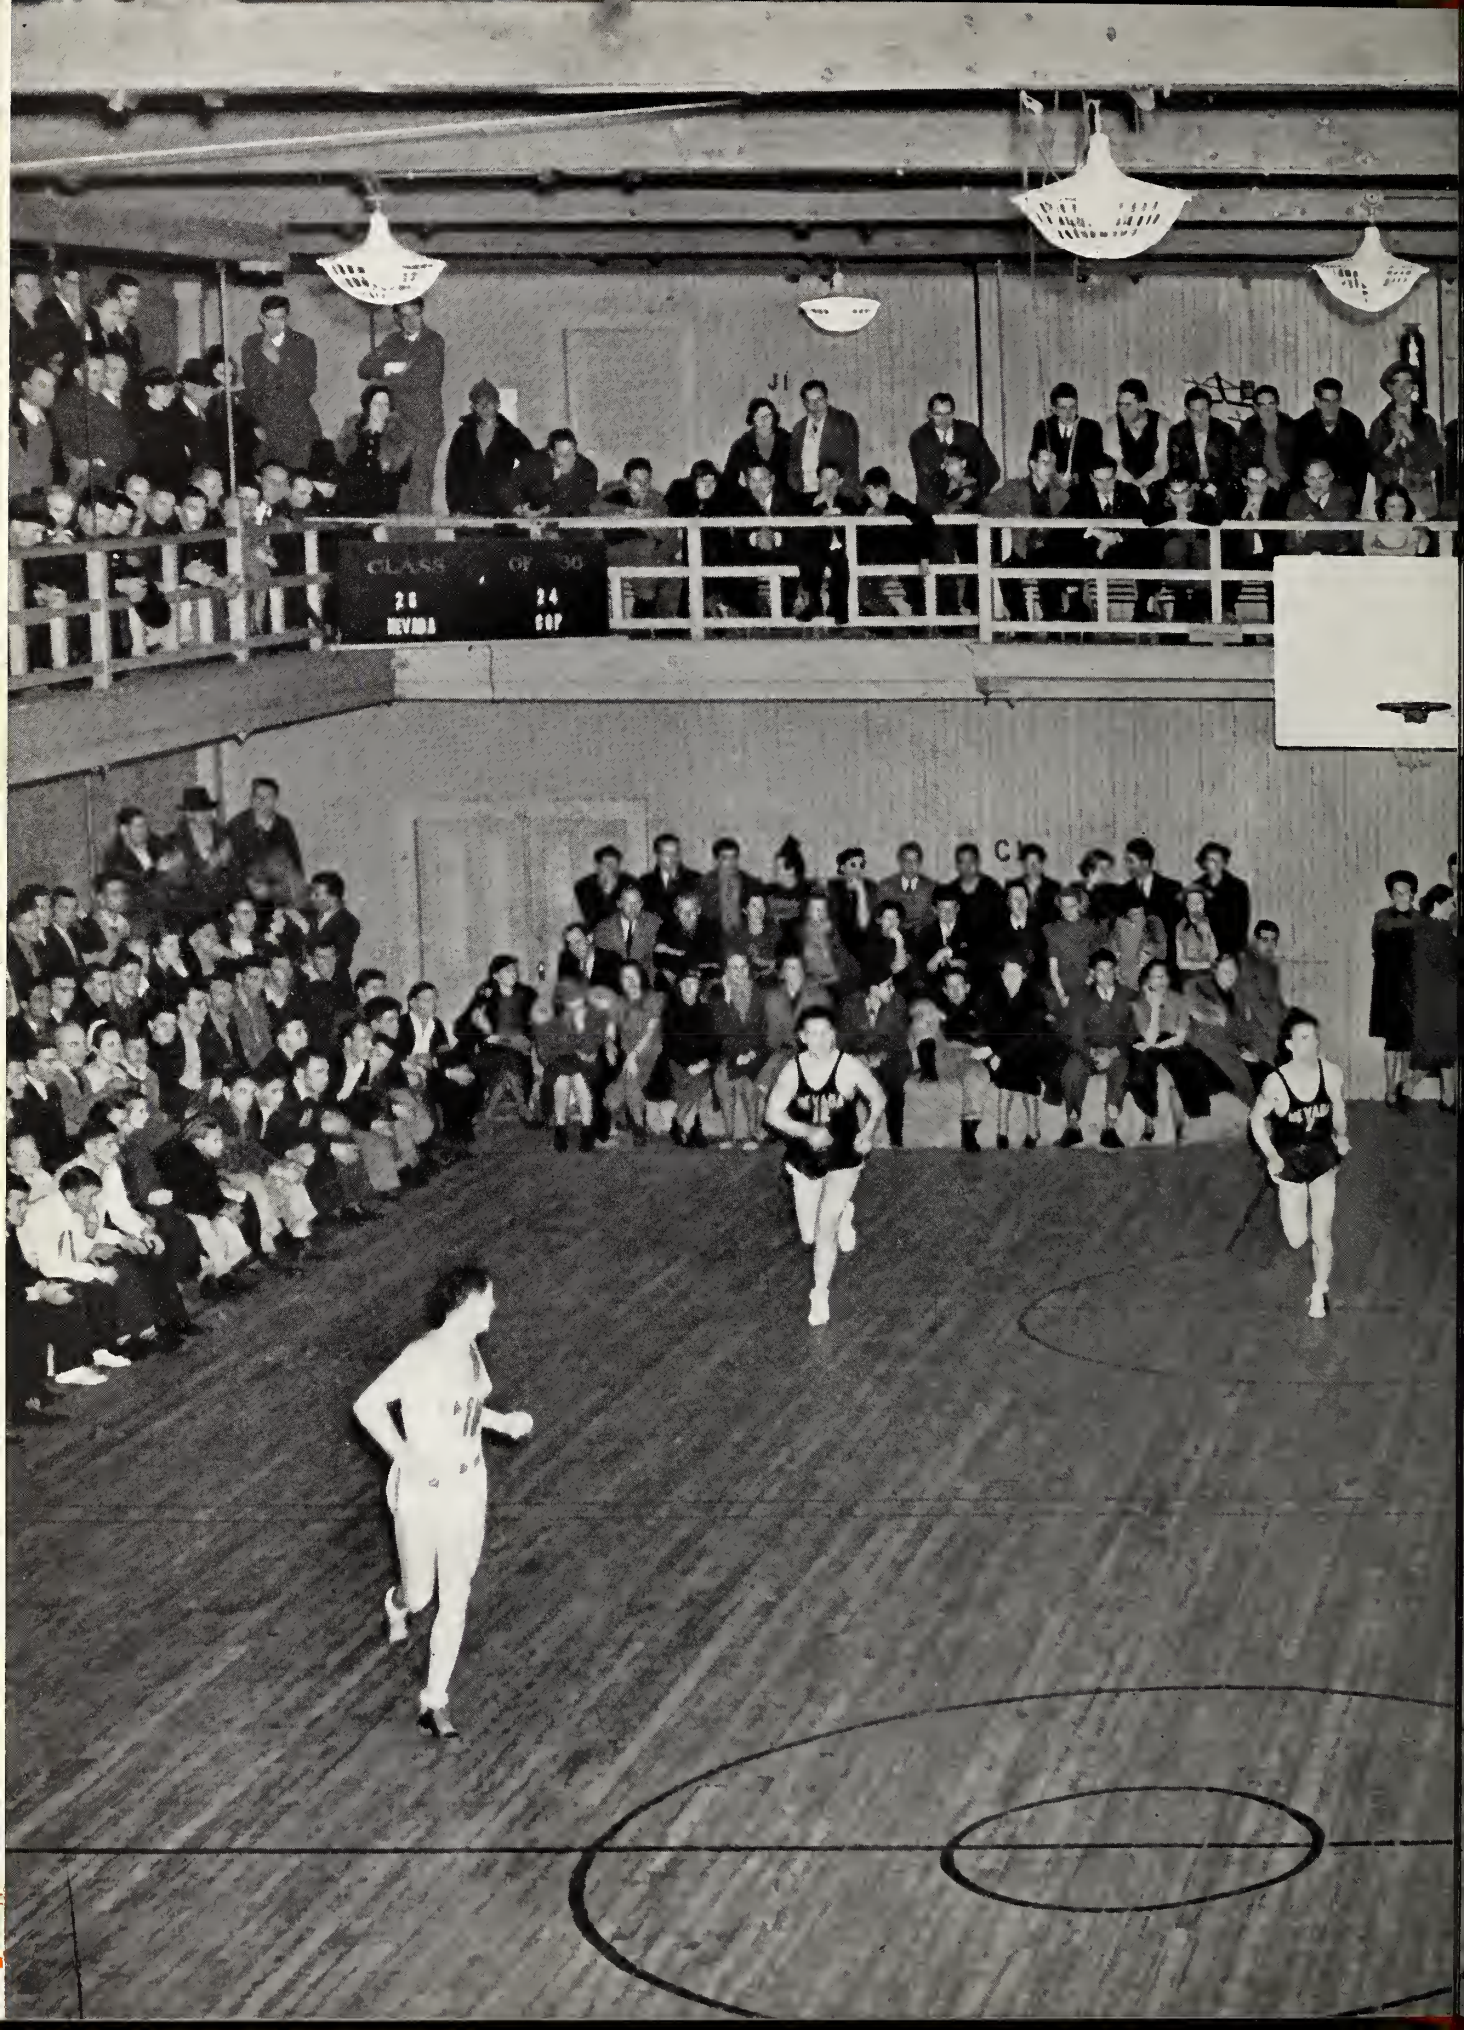

Football Managers

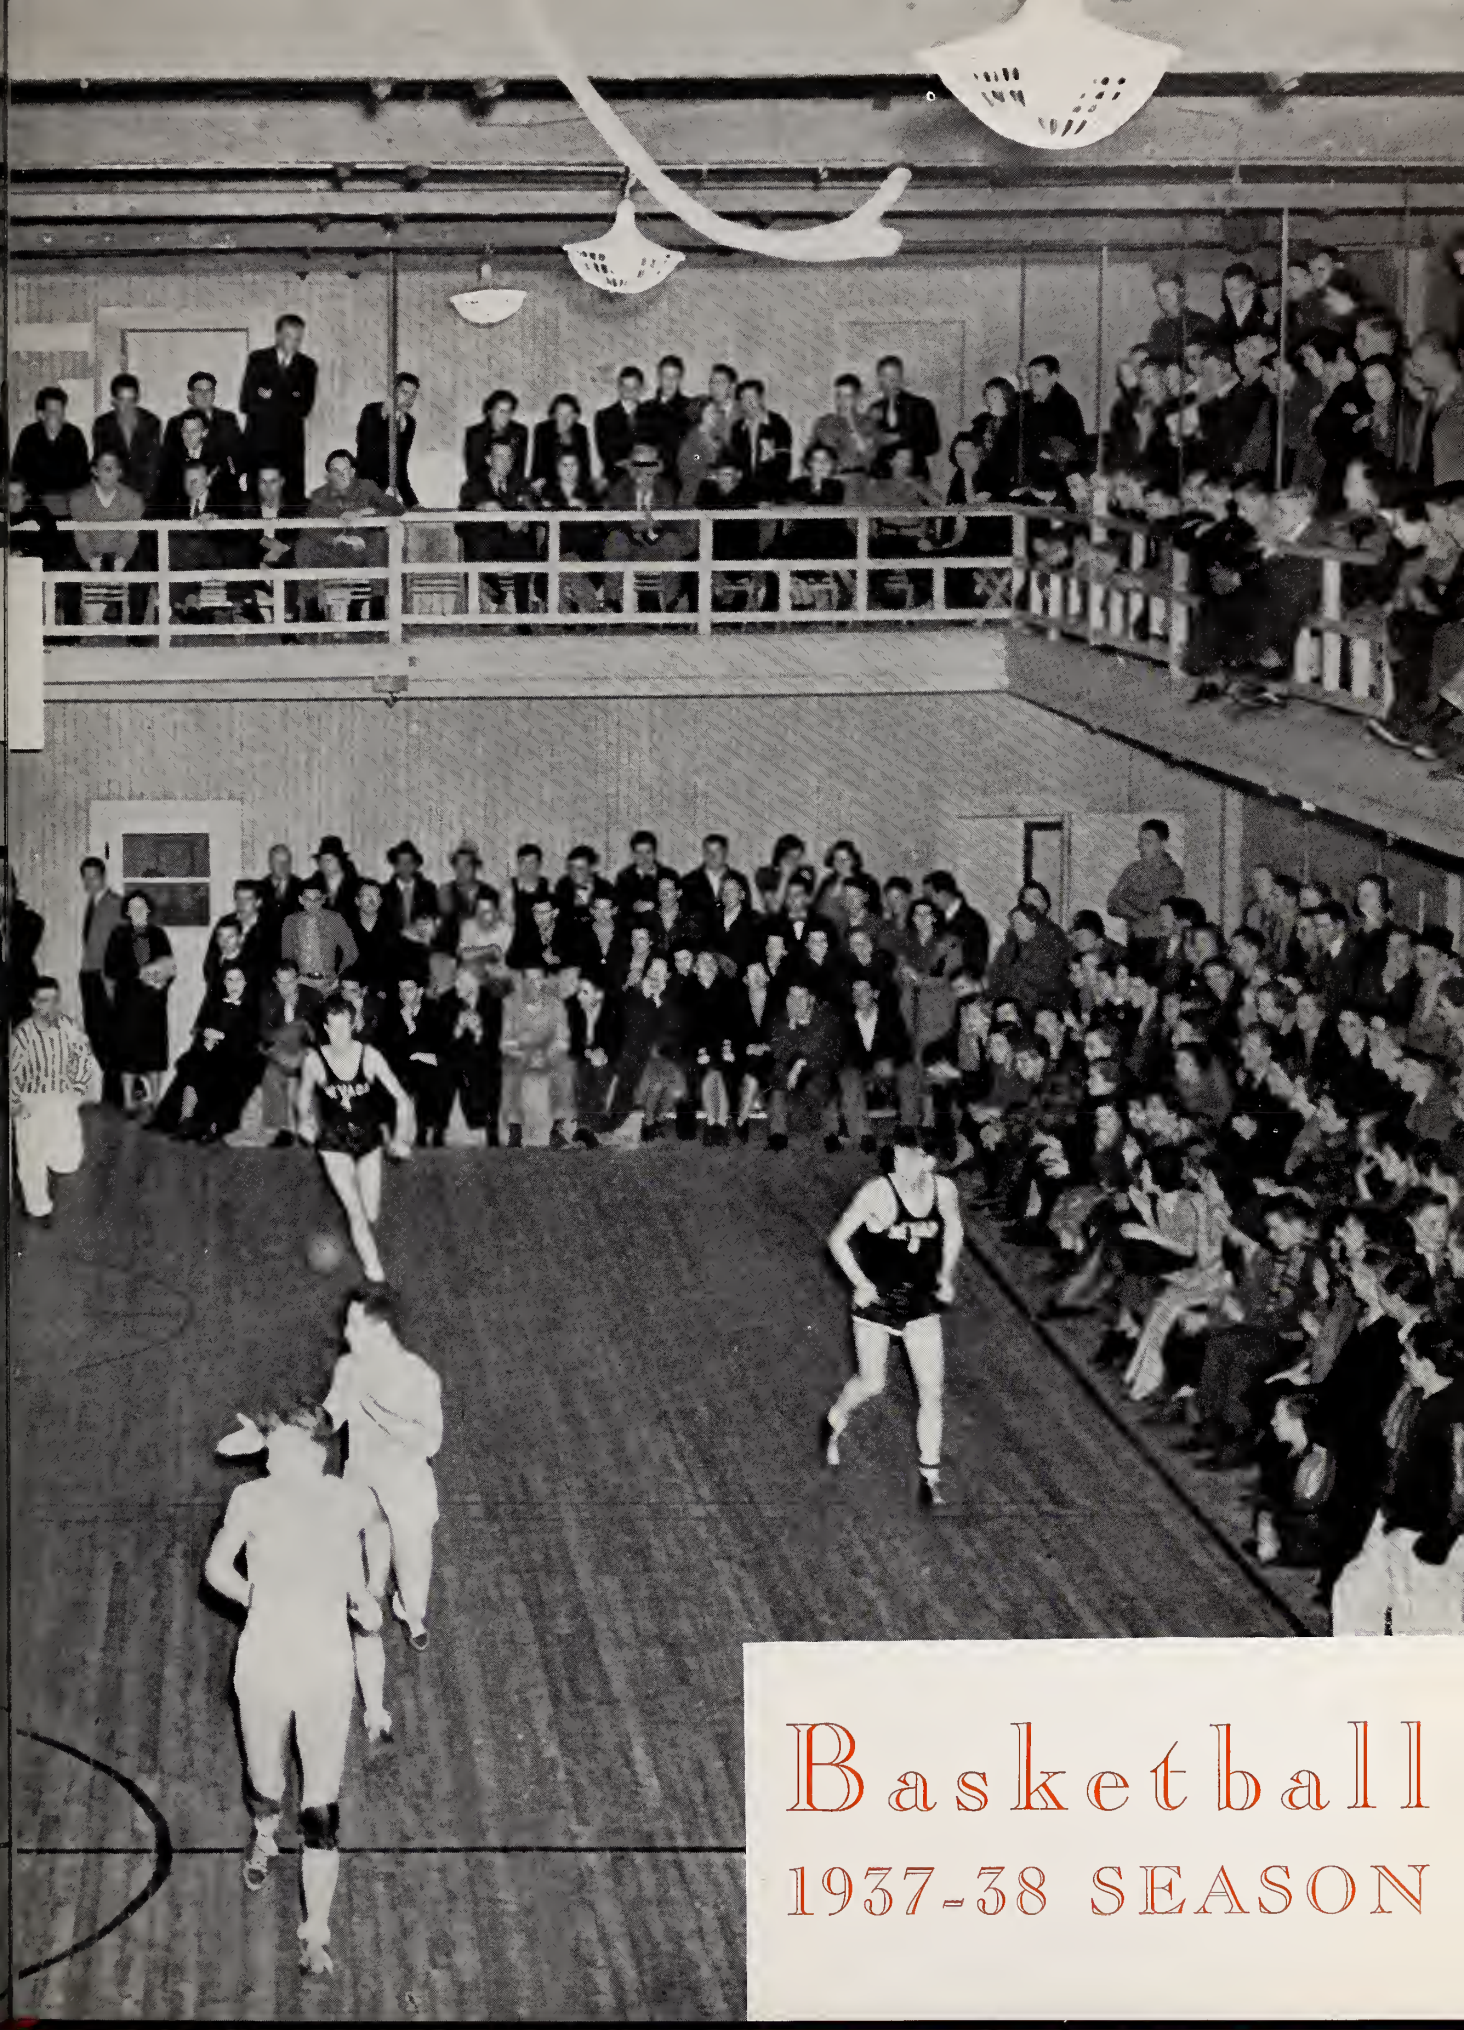

They often refer to him as the forgotten man of football; the man behind the scenes of the building of a football machine. He cares for the gridders' togs, lines the field, stencils and marks equipment, issues it and makes the preparations for trips. Such is the varsity football manager of the Nevada Wolf Pack. Last season the job was in the competent hands of George Ardans; next fall Dick Ronzone will carry on the duties of preparing the gridiron stage. Assisting Ronzone will be his staff of sophomore managers: Peter Fisler, Lee Conaway, Fred McIntyre and Robert Madison. As compensation for his three years of work, the varsity football manager is awarded a Block N sweater, made distinctive by its white bar beneath the letter "N." A student must work one full season as freshman manager, and upon appointment serve as sophomore manager. Manager is appointed shortly after the end of football season by an executive committee composed of the coach who acts as chairman with no vote, president of A. S. U. N., the incumbent manager, president of Block N, and a representative of the team appointed by the committee. This manager also becomes a member of Block N.

1937-38 SEASON

Coach J. E. Martie

"Doc" Martie

To everybody that knows him well he's "Doc." Such is J. E. Martie, head of the department of Physical Education and varsity basketball coach. His experience as an officer in the World War gave him a commanding voice, the attributes of a leader, and with such he has tutored Nevada athletic teams for the past fifteen years. When asked of his accomplishments, students point to his record at the University since 1923. Martie first came to prominence as a coach in 1926 when the Pack tied for first place in the conference basketball race. In 1927, 1928 and 1929 his teams took second place in this conference. His coaching career included graduation from Missouri State Teachers' College, two summers of graduate work in Kansas, a Master's Degree at Y. M. C. A. College, Springfield, Massachusetts. After obtaining his last degree he returned to Nevada and in 1931 took over the basketball and track squads. "Doc" again that year produced a basketball team that took second in its conference. Not until two years ago did his squads step into its lead. The conclusion of the 1936 season found the Nevadans in second-place rating. On January 1, 1936, under the new athletic set-up at Nevada, he took over the duties of director of athletics. Even more outstanding than the basketball record of Martie's were his accomplishments as head track coach. Three consecutive championships and second place have been won under him. Without a doubt Martie's greatest achievement was the coaching of a 440-yard relay team that tied the world's record.

Rocky Mountain Tour

During Christmas vacation the Pack toured the Rocky Mountain Conference, thus established a new precedent for the University's basketball team, at the same time gained invaluable experience for the Far Western Conference campaign. Still bothered by train-legs, they showed their early-season greenness, were soundly trounced in their first series, 51-23 and 61-23, by the University of Colorado. From Colorado they moved to Denver, whipped highly-touted University of Denver, 59-50. At Greeley State the following night, they eked out a 39-36 victory. Heading east again, they met the University of Wyoming's Cowboys, dropped the first game, 39-15; comeback to even the series with a 35-32 victory. They dropped off at Logan, Utah, lost a 65-39 decision to the Utah Aggies. At Provo, Utah, the Pack finished the tour, with a loss of 49-45, but the next night displayed a beautiful floor game, pulled a 44-42 win out of the fire to end the tour with a record of four wins, five losses.

University of San Francisco Series

The barnstorming tour provided experience and conditioning and with such Nevada turned back the University of San Francisco cagers by two decisive wins to open the 1938 basketball schedule. Nevada seemed unstoppable both nights and won by scores of 50-45 and 47-41. The Wolves used no specific formations in either game and proved to be exceptionally strong in teamwork. S. F. U. proved to be a slow starter in both contests and was at the short end of the score throughout. The Dons came to Nevada with an impressive pre-season record with wins over College of Pacific and slight losses to St. Mary's and Santa Clara. The invaders made their only bid in the late final half of the last game of the series, when they decreased the Wolf lead to five points. At this period the first-stringers were sent back into the game, set a slow pace and when the final gun sounded they were in the lead by six points. Dick Kolbus was fast and hot both nights.

Chico State College Series

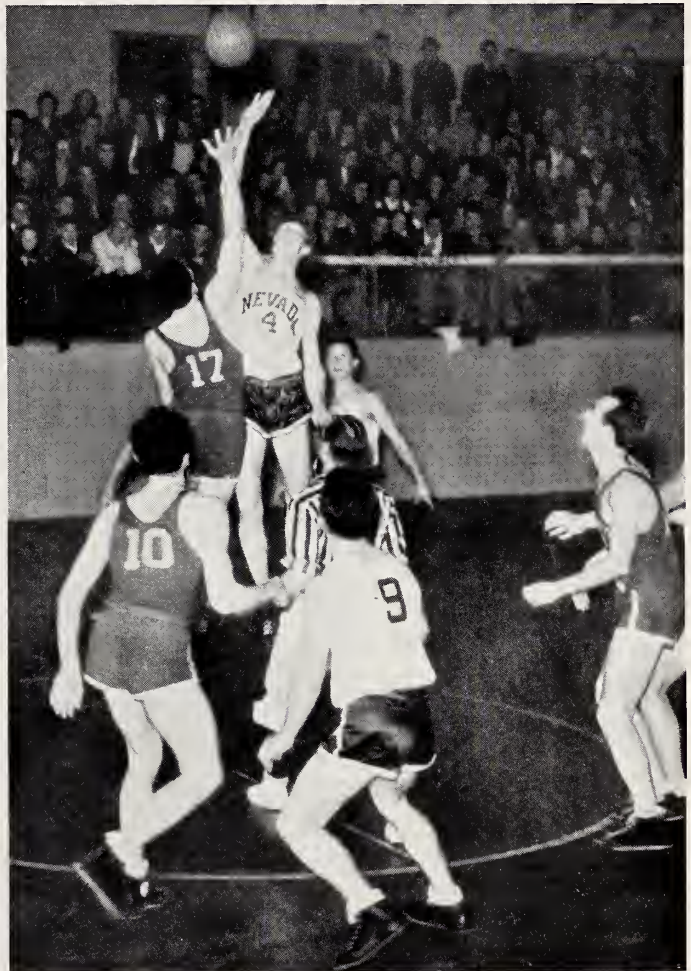

Riding high on a victory crest, the Pack opened their conference season against the Chico Wildcats, who the year before had blasted Nevada's hopes for the title, went on to win the title themselves. The first game saw the Pack show beautiful team and floor work, win an expensive victory, 42-38; called "expensive" because Kolbus, star forward, and Bawden, star guard, both went out of the game with sprained ankles, were lost to the Pack for a week. The next night, Kolbus and Bawden watched the game from the sidelines, saw their teammates exhibit the best teamwork of the whole season, completely outclass the Wildcats for a 52-44 win. Radovich, Robb and Harris played cool, smooth floor games, were high scorers both nights. As a result of this series, Nevada took over top rating in the conference with two wins and no losses, emerged as odds-on favorites to take the title. Sweep of the series also gave the Pack four straight victories.

San Jose State College Series

In a non-conference series the Wolf Pack quintet took the San Jose College five into camp by a score of 48-42 in the first game of the series played at Reno. In the first game the Pack took the lead in the opening minutes of play, despite scoring spurts of San Jose, was never in danger during the entire game. Kolbus and Harris played outstanding ball for Nevada while squatty little Joe Radetich led San Jose, both offensively and defensively. The second game started as if the Wolf Pack would drive to another victory. The Nevada team was clicking like a well-oiled machine while San Jose was having difficulty in keeping within scoring distance of the Pack. However, with a burst of speed the Spartan outfit began to pour in buckets from all angles, crept steadily up on the Nevada quintet until, with two minutes to play, the score was tied. Staying "hot" the Teachers fought off a desperate Wolf Pack, emerged with a 50-45 victory.

Fresno State College Series

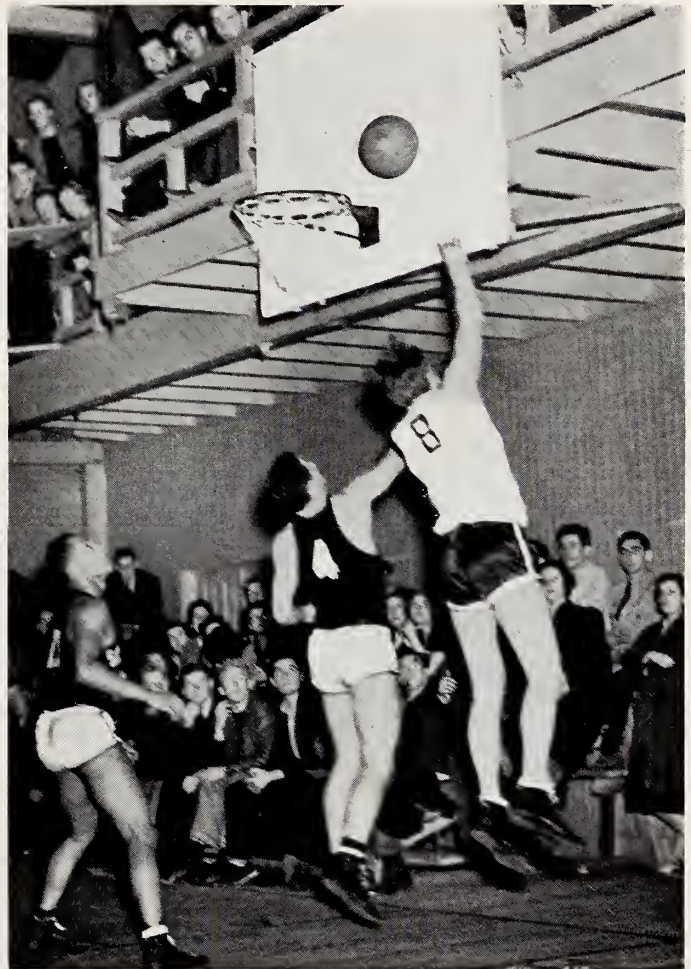

The Wolves felt the sting of defeat for the second time of the 1938 season early in February when they split a two-game series with Fresno State, in Fresno. Unexpectedly, the Bulldogs dumped the Wolves, 46-44, the first night, but the Nevadans came back to win, 46-37, the second meeting. The result put Pacific in front of the conference race, and left Nevada the only alternative of beating Pacific both nights when the two would meet one week hence. Nevada was slow and unimpressive the first night of their foray with Fresno and, as a result, one Fresno field shot spelled their first defeat. Nevada's attack and defense was altered the second night. Confidence plus a knowledge of the California court were deciding factors in giving the Wolves a victory the final evening. The Wolf lead of 21-17 at the half of the second night and the final nine points tells the story of an important game that put Nevada second in the Conference.

College of Pacific Series

The turning point in the basketball season came when Nevada took first-place conference running from College of Pacific by winning two straight games on the home court. Nevada relied on a fast break and set plays both nights and took the first contest by a margin of 15 points with the score 37-22; the Wolf lead was decreased the second night and found the final tally 44-34. "Beware of Mick Parson," was the advance warning that reached the Nevada campus, but when the famed Bengal forward, who was the main factor in spell-year before, took the floor his preying defeat for the Wolves just a meditated tricks and tactics were equally counteracted by those of Nevada's Dick Kolbus. For Nevada Radetitch and Kolbus were the scoring aces, while Parsons and prodigious little Dunlap were the shooting experts for the Bengal Tigers. The College of Pacific contest was the climax of the Pack's most promising season since 1932.

California Aggies Series

A hilarious crowd of nearly two thousand enthusiastically greeted the Nevada Wolves as they were acclaimed champions of the Far Western Conference after defeating Cal Aggies 42-41 and 46-43 on the home floor. Nevada had come back to mid-season form for the final series of the season, and the Mustangs from Davis offered some of the best competition of the season. The first night provided a thrilling contest, with the score tied and barely seconds to play, when Ray Harris, Wolf guard, was awarded a free throw. He calmly stepped up to the line, sank the goal, the gun sounded, and Nevada was awarded the game. The second meeting of the two teams gave similar result. Nevada set a fast pace and used long field shots. Cal Aggies were equally fast and used their small forwards to advantage in under-basket shots. Harris and Kolbus were the leading shooters for Nevada while the Mustangs' points were well distributed.

Junior Varsity Whites

The Junior Varsity Whites turned in a spotty record for the season, jumping into an early lead in the City League by winning their first three games, later dropping decisions to the weakest teams in the league. Faced with the necessity of winning their last two games in order to get into the play-off for the city title the Whites finally hit their stride, won a place in the tourney by beating the First National Bank and the Y. M. C. A. After hanging up a new league scoring record for a single game in taking a 71-51 win over Delta Sigma Fraternity in the first round and winning their semi-final game handily, they slipped back into the erratic form they displayed at mid-season, trailed the Waldorf Club home in a slow game. Coach of the Whites was Joe Radetich, varsity guard, who also piloted them last year. Rated as favorites over the Jayvee Blues in their annual all-University battle, the Whites disappointed Coach Radetich, spent the evening on the short end of the score.

Junior Varsity Blues

Junior Varsity Blues completed a record just the opposite of that of the Whites. Starting slowly, they were defeated often enough to keep them out of the play-off before they hit their stride. When Coach John Robb, varsity forward, finally found a clicking combination, the Blues started to defeat the top-notch teams of the League. The combination aided the Blues in winning the Jayvee's "little-big-game." Part of the Blues' early-season trouble seemed to come from the requirement that the team play half of its games on the University court and half on the Billingham Junior High court. Collegians, playing a type of game adapted to the large University floor, found the smaller arena at Billingham hard to handle. The scoring plays of the team, modeled on those of the varsity, seemed to work on the big court for which they were designed. Sam McMullen, forward, and Ira Farris, steady guard, worked well with Barsanti, Rhoades, Olsen and Mastroianni to turn in wins.

Coach Jim Coleman

Frosh Basketball

Greeted by the usual turnout of enthusiastic freshman hoopsters, Coach Jim Coleman spent the last two weeks of the fall semester weeding out the poorest, arranging the rest according to their abilities, and getting ready for the season. After losing their first three contests to Reno High, Sacramento Junior College and the Reno Printing Company, the yearlings completely reversed their form, finished the season with fifteen consecutive victories. Most creditable wins of the season—a clean sweep of the Cal Aggie Frosh series, an upset over the powerful Sacramento Oilers, a thorough drubbing administered to Reno High in a return game, and two victories over Sparks Western Division high school champions. They further established themselves as one of the best of Frosh teams by completely outclassing the rest of the Nevada high school crop. A big reason for this year's success was the size of the team, probably the rangiest Cub team in history. Lee and Emery Conaway, John Lemich, Mitchell Cobeaga and Vic Donovan were outstanding.

Managers: J. Griswold, F. Steen, L. Conaway, L. Oppio, L. Fallon, H. Ackerman, V. Wines, J. Bazzini

Basketball Manager

A great many problems confronted Leland Fallon when he took over the duties of varsity basketball manager. Among these were preparations for Nevada's longest barnstorming tour, caring for equipment, and general duties of arranging the courses for Nevada's Far Western Conference championship team. Fallon journeyed east with the team, returned home and prepared the stage for an eight-game season. At the conclusion of the 1938 basketball season, Vernon Wines was named varsity basketball manager for the next year. Wines will have a staff of four sophomore managers assisting him. They are Emery Conoway, John Bassini, Donald Downs and James Griswold. The position of varsity basketball manager is given to a student with at least junior standing and at the time he assumes his duties he shall have served as assistant manager in his sophomore year. He is appointed by a committee composed of the coach, president of A. S. U. N., the outgoing manager, president of Block N, and a member of the squad appointed by the committee. His award is a Block N sweater with a white bar beneath the letter "N." He also receives membership to the Block N society.

1937-38 SEASON

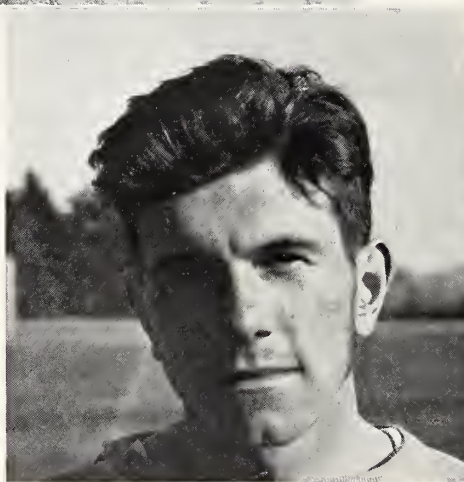

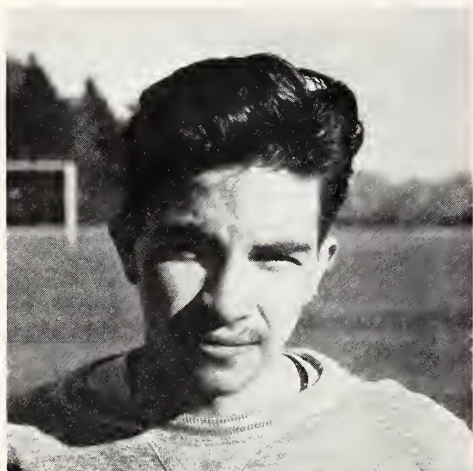

Coach James Coleman

Varsity Track

Despite the presence of two record-tiers and one record-holder on the team, Nevada's 1937 varsity track squad got no better than a fourth in the Far Western Conference meet, finished last in the three other meets on their schedule. Record-tiers were sprinters Walter Powers and Emery Graunke, who turned in record-equaling times in the hundred and two-twenty-yard dashes, respectively, at the conference meet. Record-holder Broadjumper Kenyon Richard, who smashed the conference record with a leap of 24 feet 7 $\frac{3}{4}$ inches in his Junior year, also competed. Handicapped by cold weather and lack of balance on the squad, Coach James Coleman considered his chances for a victory at the first of the season to be "outside," got far better results than anyone expected of the material on hand, yet was never able to bring his team closer than twelve points from victory. The first meet of the season, a three-cornered affair at Davis, California, gave Cal Aggies a victory with 59 $\frac{1}{2}$ points, Chico a second with 56, Nevada last with 37 $\frac{1}{2}$. In the first home meet of the year, Nevada came its closest to achieving a victory when they gave Chico a real battle up to the final events, then lost out 71 to 59. Also lost was the second home appearance when the Cal Aggies walked off with a 78-to-52 victory. The Far Western meet saw Fresno's perennially strong team completely outclass the other squads carry off the victory 70 $\frac{1}{2}$ points to Cal Aggies' 37 $\frac{1}{2}$, Chico's 37 and Nevada's 20.

This year's prospects, with Powers back in the sprints, Day and Rhoades in the broadjump, Rodriguez in the 880, Moler and Barrett in the distances, Cameron in the high hurdles, pole vault and high jump, and the Galloways and Stewart in the weights, were fair. However, one of the coldest springs in history, the ineligibility of such men as Stark, King, Parsons, Harris and Howard, combine to cut the point winners in half, completely wreck an otherwise better-than-average Nevada squad.

Coach Chester Scranton

Frosh Track

The class of 1940, competing with experienced tracksters, got its first taste of collegiate competition in that sport when they nosed out the Senior class last year by two and one-half points, took third place in the interclass meet. Decisively outscored by Yerington's state championship squad by a score of 79-56 in a practice meet, the yearlings, led by Robert Cameron, Ray Garamendi, Jack Rhoades and George Deverell, came back with vengeance to end the season by romping over Reno and Sparks in a three-cornered meet on Mackay field, scoring 74 points to 59 for Reno and 14 for Sparks.

This year, armed with a larger force of hopefuls, Varsity Coach Jim Coleman anticipated a good season, relying on such former high school stars as John Polish, John Lemich, Emory Conoway, Albert Collier, R. P. Duncan and Mitchell Cobeaga to dominate the scoring column. During the spring semester of this year the first meet was scheduled with Reno, Sparks, Hawthorne and Lassen J. C. for April 9 on Mackay field. With this as a good start the Frosh are expected to develop a powerful aggregation by the end of the season, to take top honors in every meet in their schedule.

Ski Team

University of Nevada's ski team, which was organized only three years ago, is now considered third best college team in the United States—bows only to Washington and Dartmouth. In their first meet of the year at Grass Lake on Mount Rose, they set some kind of record by taking 399 points out of a possible 400, defeating California, Stanford, Sacramento Junior College and Placer Junior College, who finished in the order given. Outstanding performers for the Pack were Bechdolt, who took first in the jumps and fifth in the downhill; Warden, who took third in the jumps and first in the cross-country, and Edmunds, who took first in the downhill, second in the cross-country, and second in the slalom. Four weeks later, Wolf skiers led by Coaches Arrouge and Poulsen, both alumni and former star skiers of Nevada, entered the Pacific Coast Intercollegiate meet at Yosemite, where they were given a good chance to wrest the title from Washington, to whom they had finished second in '36 and '37. Nevada, finding the jinx unbreakable, again ended up in second place. Coming within eleven points of victory, they finished far ahead of Stanford, U. C. L. A., Fresno, California and an assortment of minor colleges.

Varsity Tennis

Balked by adverse weather conditions, this spring Coach Chet Scranton and his netmen, nevertheless, have managed to squeeze in enough practice sessions to line up a tennis squad. From this turnout, by a ladder elimination tourney, six men will be picked for varsity competition. With a squad of thirteen men, including Frank Goodner, Robert Leaver, Gene Peterson, Ross Ashley, Galen deLongchamps, John Gardner, Charles Harris, Chester Jacobsen, Thomas Menzies, Ernest Ogle, Harry Smythe, Melanio Casia and Joe Radetich, Chet has to rely on inexperienced players for the bulk of his tennis team. Tentative schedule outlined for the season includes a meet at Fresno on April 23, with the Cal Aggies April 30 here and, finally, the conference meet at Davis, California. Last Spring's squad of Elmer Bawden and Anthony Leone in the doubles and James Herz in the singles ran into tough luck at the Far Western meet at Chico. Herz was upset in the opening round by Bright of Pacific; Bawden and Leone were eliminated in the semi-finals by a Fresno team that eventually won the title. Other than the Far Western meet, Nevada met and defeated the Cal Aggies at Davis, tied the University of San Francisco at San Francisco and lost to Fresno in Reno.

Wrestling

Wrestling, Nevada's latest sport, made rapid strides during the second year of its adoption by the University of Nevada. The sport made its first appearance on the campus late in 1936, was started by Edward Kuhlan, who this season became coach of the team when Jim Coleman, first instructor, was unable to take the squad. Kuhlan, with plenty of practical experience, is well qualified as an instructor, turned out a strong team this year. Calling for three turnouts a week, he worked hard with his men, was able to announce, near the end of the season, that his aggregation could give any opponent a good tussle. Block N challenged the statement and offered the grapplers a chance to fulfill the boast by showing their wares at the first annual Stag Night. Block N was impressed by the performance of the team, donated funds to help send the team to the Pacific Coast Intercollegiate matches in San Francisco. For receiving pulled muscles, cauliflower ears and "mat burns," the wrestlers are rewarded with three white letters—U. N. W.—across the foreground of a blue sweater.

Churchill is the leading agricultural county in Nevada and embraces the larger portion of the government Newlands irrigation district. Fallon turkeys and Hearts of Gold canteloupes grown in this area are favored from the Pacific coast to the Atlantic for their superior quality. More than five hundred of the seven hundred farms are provided with modern equipment such as water pressure systems, electricity and attractive homes.

Fallon, Churchill county seat, is one of the more important highway centers of Nevada. Paved roads radiate in five directions including the Lincoln highway and the Pacific Northwest-Los Angeles all-winter route. The Churchill county high school is Nevada's second largest with an imposing building and two blocks of campus. The consolidated grade school district ranks among the best in the nation. Nine church organizations are active.

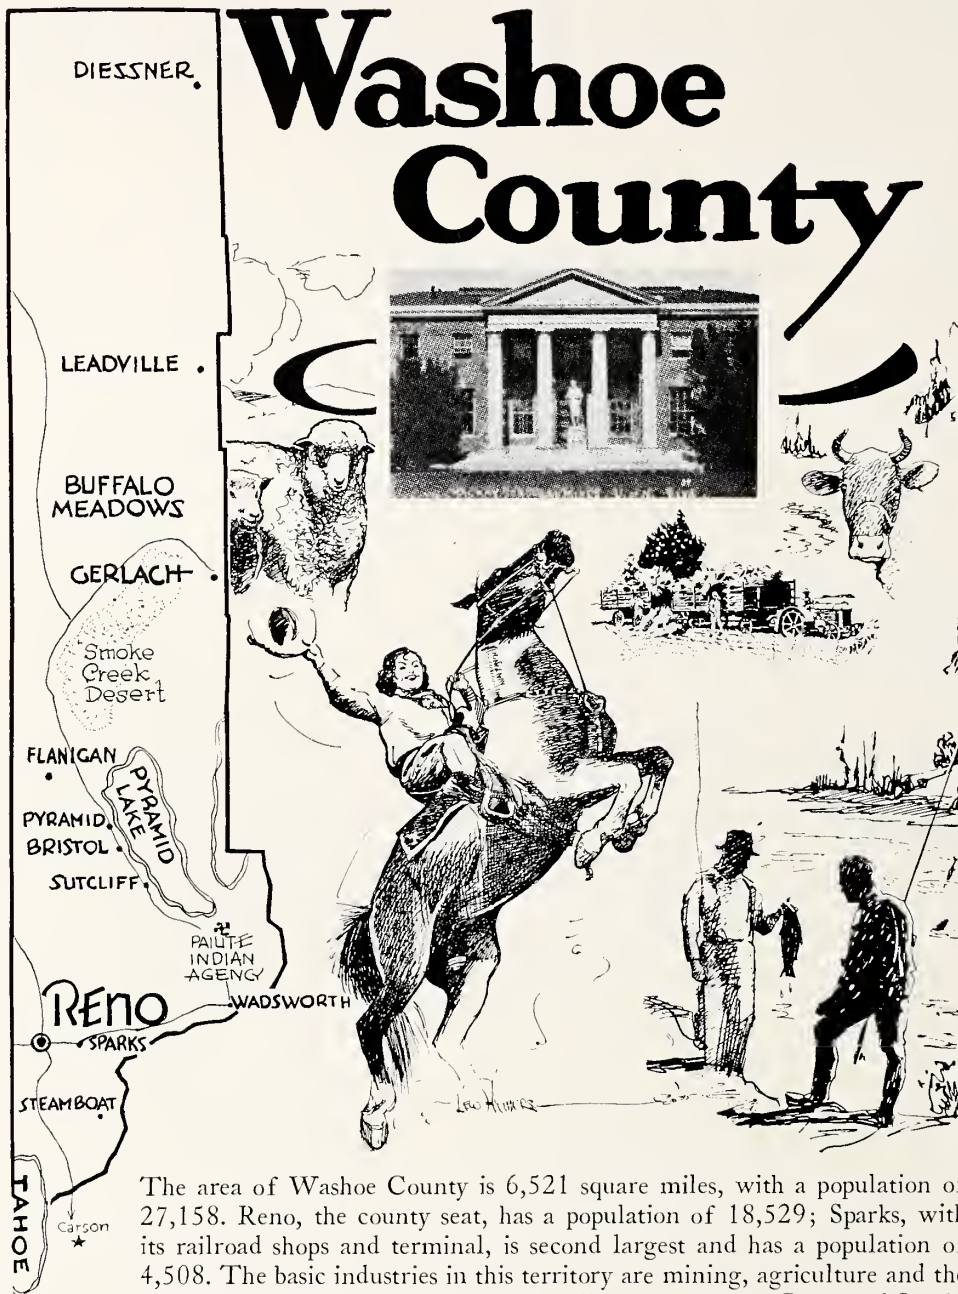

LYON COUNTY

Lyon County was named after the Civil War General, Nathaniel Lyon. The valleys of Lyon County are the most fertile in the state and are irrigated by the Walker River Project. The county is also noted for its deposits of gold and copper. It is known as the place where mining and agriculture meet.

Besides Yerington, the county seat, which has a population of over 1,100, there are many historic mining towns, such as Silver City and Dayton.

Lyon County has an area of 1,509 square miles, and a population of over 3,810. Its principal resources are livestock, agriculture, and mining. The total annual production of precious and other metals is $644,425; agriculture, $1,086,266; livestock, $1,723,927.

The area of Washoe County is 6,521 square miles, with a population of 27,158. Reno, the county seat, has a population of 18,529; Sparks, with its railroad shops and terminal, is second largest and has a population of 4,508. The basic industries in this territory are mining, agriculture and the production of livestock and lumber . . . In the vicinity of Reno and Sparks approximately 35,000 acres of land are under cultivation and the more important crops consist of alfalfa, potatoes, grains, onions and garden crops. The dairying and poultry raising industries are rapidly growing in importance . . . Washoe County has an excellent highway system affording direct routes from the East and all Pacific Coast points. Reno is the center of the Nevada highway system and an important diversion point for the entire West and Intermountain region. The University of Nevada is located in Reno.

Storey County

Situated on the slopes of Mount Davidson lies the most interested mining city in America, Virginia City. In 1876 it had a population of 40,000, the lode having been discovered January 20, 1859. Its output was great enough to finance the United States Government in Civil War days. In fact, the production of the mines of Virginia City to date exceeds that of the mines in the entire territory of Alaska. The Comstock Lode extends from the Utah mine on the north to the Alta on the south, and the entire distance of about four miles can be traversed underground without once coming to the surface. There are six hundred miles of underground workings. The deepest shaft is the Combination, which goes down 3,262 feet. The deepest workings are the Mexican Twins, which are about 3,300 feet. Sutro Tunnel and its laterals are nine miles long, and tap the central part of the lode at a depth of 1,650 feet.

The total output to date is 900,000,000 dollars, 500,000,000 in silver and 400,000,000 in gold. There is at present considerable mining activity in Storey County.

Picturesque Geiger Grade, with its steep, curved incline which unites Reno with Virginia City, has been replaced by a high-gear road which was part of the State Highway Department program. Virginia City is but 14 miles from Carson City, and 28 miles from Glenbrook, Lake Tahoe. It is the most famous mining city in America, and is one place every Nevadan as well as every visiting tourist should see.

Appreciation

Traditional is the narrow margin by which the Editor and Business Manager escape flunking out of college while producing the yearbook. This year was no exception. In spite of our vows to get everything done early the book was assembled at the last possible hour, handed to the printer, and prayers were made that delivery could be made to the students before the end of college. Therefore, it is proper that we should thank Harry Frost and Bill Shipaugh of the Reno Printing Company and their workers for staggering under the load of another Artemisia.

Wayne Thornton, of the American Engraving Company, among others, we thank. He managed to interpret all of our ideas, give us the kind of engraving we wanted. Working with him was John Black, who came to the campus, took the pictures you have seen on the division pages. A former student, Lew Hymers, who did the art work for another Artemisia over twenty years ago, drew the designs for the covers, the campus cartoon, the borders. Pictures our staff photographers missed were given to us by Ivy Freeman, well-known local photographer. Our Molloy-made cover was handled by Sam Babcock, who helped make possible our attractive covers. To Tate Williams, of the Nevada Retail Merchants Association, another thanks for helping us sell advertising, making possible the publication of the book. Finally, our own staffs, who spent hours of work in the office, received nothing from it but a chance to head the publication some time in the future. The Editor and Business Manager join in hoping that this volume will be revealing enough to give any reader an accurate picture of the University of Nevada.

SAMUEL G. WILSON, Editor.
EDWARD B. OLDS, Manager.
